Calles Almost Certain To Retain His Post as 'Pro Tem' Chief; Re-election Is Illegal.

NINE-DAY PERIOD TO MOURN OBREGON

Body Speeds Northward to Sonora Where His Family Will Bury Him With Simple Services.

Mexico City, July 19.—(AP)—The problem of Mexico's immediate political future will rest in the hands of a congress made up mainly of supporters of the late President-elect Alvaro Obregon, which, by a writ issued today, will meet July 30.

In the meantime Mexico, nationwide, will observe a nine-day period of mourning for the political leader who was shot down by an assassin Tuesday. His body tonight was speeding northward on a special funeral train to his native state of Sonora, where he will be buried with all the honors Mexico can give.

Many Arrests Made.
The activity of police and officials endeavoring to determine those "intellectually responsible" for General Obregon's slaying was redoubled today. Numerous arrests were made, but the names of those taken in custody were not made public.

Indications were more insistent than ever tonight that supporters of the late president-elect will attempt to continue President Calles as the head of the state if it can be done with any shadow of legal sanction. Their plan is said to be to propose General Calles for the presidential term, not as president, thus eliminating violation of the constitution which forbids the chief executive from succeeding himself.

Action Within Law.
This course of action, political leaders feel, would be entirely within the law and would at the same time avoid precipitating the country into a political situation which some fear might cause chaos.

Friends of General Calles assert most strongly that he does not desire to continue in his post and has been anticipating with much pleasure his retirement to the private life of a dairy farmer, but he has been told by the very men responsible for the election of General Obregon as his successor, that the country needs his leadership and that discontinuance of orderly government is threatened unless he agrees to carry on.

Calles Leads Probe.
President Calles has been almost sleepless since General Obregon's death. When not personally participating in the funeral and its preliminaries and the investigation of the crime, he has been working day and night on official business. Whether at the national palace, Chapultepec castle, or at his private home where a heavy military guard has been stationed. Some of his friends think he has been rashly exposing himself to a fate similar to that of General Obregon, especially by marching in the funeral procession. But President Calles has rejected any idea that his personal

GOVERNOR HOLDS TO SLIGHT LEAD IN MONTANA VOTE

Helena, Mont., July 19.—(AP)—With returns from all except 70 isolated precincts received from Tuesday's primary election, the contest of Governor J. E. Erickson, democrat, for renomination continued to hold interest. Returns from 1,420 of the state's 1,490 precincts tabulated, gave Governor Erickson a lead of 403 votes over Roy E. Ayres, his opponent. As a result of this lead, it was believed the contest would not be determined until returns from all precincts had been received.

Prisoner Slays Guards, Frees 100 and Kills Self

New York, July 19.—(AP)—A spectacular attempt by a prisoner to shoot his way out of the Bronx county jail tonight ended in the killing of two keepers and the death of the prisoner, who killed himself when a door he was unable to open prevented his escape. The jail building, which also houses the Bronx county court and the Bronx borough offices, was thrown into an uproar when John McCabe, a prisoner who was armed with two revolvers, released 100 prisoners from their cells into the tier enclosures. McCabe first attacked Keeper Morris Broderick, 53, who fell with a bullet wound in the abdomen and died 20 minutes later. Taking the keeper's keys, the prisoner went to the third floor tier, where he met Keeper Dan Horgan, 34. Several shots were exchanged before Horgan fell with a bullet through his heart. # Kidnaped and Held Prisoner 10 Days, Mrs. Heath Claims

Sensational Story of Abduction Told to Police by Woman Who Figured in Zink Shooting.

LAKELAND POLICE SEEK FRED FAIR

Mrs. Heath Says That Admirer Had Annoyed Her Frequently Before Date of Kidnaping.

A woman's disappearance which almost cost the life of an innocent man, mistakenly shot as her abductor, partially was cleared up Thursday night with location at Tampa, Fla., of Mrs. W. O. Heath, missing from her home here since July 5.

Walking into police headquarters in Tampa with the woman, Mrs. Heath told a story that largely corresponds with the one related to police here by J. R. Griffin, her cousin.

Griffin Tells Story.
Griffin said that on the afternoon the woman disappeared he was met by Fred D. Fair, whom the woman accuses as her abductor. Fair, said Griffin, forced him into his automobile at the point of a pistol and drove to the home of the woman's brother, E. L. Griffin, where he was compelled to call her to the sidewalk. After Mrs. Heath entered the car, Griffin said Fair ordered him out and drove away with the woman.

The next night, the Griffins and Heath, who was estranged from his wife, went to the place where Fair lived. John Zink came out of the dwelling next door and was shot down. The trio asserted they shot Zink through mistake, thinking he was Fair. For several days Zink was near death but rallied and now is said to be out of danger.

Fair, it was said, worked at the same publishing plant here with Mrs. Heath and had been on friendly terms with her since she and her husband became estranged.

Asks Railroad Fare.

E. L. Griffin, brother of Mrs. Heath, received a telegram from Tampa Thursday afternoon asking that money be sent for her passage to Atlanta. The message was signed by Mrs. Heath.

Expressing confidence in the success of the democratic party in the November election, George Ed Maddox, chairman of the state democratic executive committee, Thursday issued a statement urging party leaders in every county of the state to prepare for a vigorous campaign.

His statement follows: "At the recent meeting of the national democratic committee, reports from every section of the country indicated, even at the early date, that there was an excellent prospect of success for the democratic ticket in the November election. Regardless of their attitude prior to the nomination, the tried and trusted leaders of the

U. S. L. T. A. Rules Former World Champion Has Broken Rulings; Nations Aid "Big Bill."

England Declares Tilden Inside Law

London, July 19.—(United News.)—The Evening Standard said today the British Lawn Tennis association had received a cablegram two days ago from the American Lawn Tennis association asking whether William T. Tilden violated the British amateur rules by writing newspaper articles on the Wimbledon tournament. The newspaper said British officials replied as follows: "Tilden did not contravene British regulations in writing for the press."

New York, July 19.—(AP)—A 2,000-word statement from the United States Lawn Tennis association today in explanation of action in dropping William T. Tilden from the Davis cup team failed to offer any loophole by which Big Bill could possibly be reinstated in time for play in the crucial battles abroad.

While varying degrees of incredulity, amazement and dismay swept the tennis world, the association stood pat, taking the position that Tilden apparently willfully violated its amateur player-writer rule which he himself helped to frame and had himself helped to write.

Not even at the cabined request of the French Tennis federation, will the U. S. L. T. A. accede from this position, it was announced unofficially, although the association was prepared to give such a request due and courteous consideration. The statement pointed out this was not the first time Tilden had been charged with violating that section of the amateur rule which forbids "writing for pay or a consideration current newspaper articles covering a tournament or match in which he is entered as a competitor."

In August, 1925, six months after the rule was made with Tilden's own assistance, the statement said, he was accused of violating it and the association agreed to impose no penalty only after he had promised not to write current articles "to appear earlier than the third day following the completion of the event."

VICTIM OF PLANE MYSTERY FOUND BY FISHING BOAT

Famous Belgian Banker Identified by Watch; Discovery Partly Clears Story of Fatal Plunge.

RUMORS OF HOAX ARE SET AT REST

France Is Expected To Renew Inquiry; Body Scantily Clad and in State of Decomposition.

Paris, July 19.—(United News.)—A practically nude body believed certain to be that of Alfred Lowenstein, international banker who disappeared over the English channel, was found by a fishing vessel off Calais today.

A gold wrist watch with the initials "A. L." was on the man's wrist and he wore a pair of silk socks. Calais police, comparing the corpse with photographs of Lowenstein and measures, declared there was not the slightest doubt as to the identity.

Police Conduct Autopsy.

The fisherman said he had found the body 10 miles north of Cape Grenay and had difficulty getting it aboard.

A police autopsy at Calais showed the left side had been badly torn, the stomach opened, and the left shoulder shattered.

The banker's wife and employees telephoned they would confer with police at Calais Friday afternoon.

The police were surprised by the absence of garments but believed the millionaire struck the water alive and had sufficient strength to throw off his clothes in an attempt to swim to shore or remain afloat until rescued.

The alternative suicide theory suggests that he might have dived in the airplane and thrown out his clothing before he jumped. The body was terribly decomposed.

New Complications.

Findings of the body in French waters by a French ship has complicated the affair as the investigation of Lowenstein's disappearance, conducted in Brussels, now must be reopened by the French.

This will necessitate the calling of witnesses from Belgium and England, including Lowenstein's pilots, who have insisted he committed suicide.

Although the courts at Brussels declared Lowenstein's disappearance, in vague rumors and speculation concerning him since his disappearance.

His private airplane left Croydon airport for Brussels and landed on the French coast, occupants of the plane—a pilot, a valet and stenographer—said Lowenstein probably

IL DUCE SILENCES ITALIA REFUGEES

Rome, July 19.—(AP)—Premier Mussolini today ordered all survivors of the Italia disaster to return to Italy, and in the meantime to refrain from all messages, decorations and interviews.

The premier's decision, brought about by misunderstandings which have arisen as the result of reports from Spitzbergen, was widely approved by the press and public. It is thought here that some of the interviews and statements given out by rescued members of the expedition, because of the necessity of their being translated into other languages, gave a false impression of the events preceding and following the disaster to the dirigible.

The rescued men will be taken to Narvik, Norway, by the base ship Citta di Milano and from there will proceed directly to Italy. Later the Citta di Milano will return to Kings Bay to continue searches for the six men of the Italia's crew who are still missing.

SWEDISH RELIEF BOATS RECALLED

Stockholm, July 19.—(AP)—The Swedish Spitzbergen relief expedition has been sent orders to return to Stockholm.

There are two Swedish ships now in the north. The Quest which was used as a base for aviation scouts and the Tanja which is riding at anchor with three Swedish aviators who will proceed home.

Members of the Swedish rescue party include Captain Tornberg, Lieutenant Elinor Lundborg and Lieutenant Nobile. Lieutenant Lundborg made a brilliant landing on the ice off North East Land on June 24 and rescued General Umberto Nobile, commander of the Italia expedition. Lieutenant Lundborg made a second trip to the place, but damaged his plane in landing and was marooned himself for 13 days. Finally he was taken off by his lieutenant, Shyberg, who landed on the ice.

AMUNDSEN SEARCH NOT ABANDONED

Moscow, July 19.—(AP)—The Soviet rescue commission announced today that its new rescue efforts in behalf of the missing Amundsen party will get underway as soon as possible. Pilot Sergei, attached to the ice-breaker Malguk, which is proceeding along the southeast coast of the Spitzbergen archipelago, will start an immediate search for Amundsen in areas previously uninvestigated.

REASON FOR RESCUING NOBLE FIRST GIVEN

Stockholm, July 19.—(AP)—General Umberto Nobile, leader of the Italia expedition, was rescued from the arctic ice before his companions because all the circumstances including the general's condition and his knowledge of the situation, made it advisable to rescue him first, his Swedish rescuers have explained.

Captain Tornberg, leader of the Swedish Spitzbergen expedition, referring to the rescue of Nobile on June 24 by Lieutenant Elinor Lundborg, said the lieutenant had orders to take off one of the wounded members of the Noble party, but which one was left to his discretion.

Captain Tornberg, however, impressed on Lieutenant Lundborg that it was desirable to have Noble first in order that he might assist them with information which would be invaluable in rescuing the other survivors.

SNOOK'S ILLNESS HALTS RIOT PROBE

The escape plot cannot be indicted and tried for attempting to escape, they can be indicted and tried for aiding each other in an attempt to escape, it was said Thursday at the district attorney's office. It is no crime to escape from the prison, but it is a crime to aid another person to escape and each man involved in the plot can be prosecuted for aiding other members of the gang in the effort to break from the prison, it was said.

Escape Attempt Discovers.
The plot to escape over the rear wall with a makeshift ladder constructed of "two by fours" and strips of lumber from the power plant and duck mill addition construction was uncovered when Captain Clarence L. Parker, of the prison guard, stumbled across Carrigan and Boyd building the ladder near the power plant. As he started to interfere with the ladder building, Gardner, who was hidden behind the freight platform, suddenly appeared from his concealment from behind Captain Parker, grabbed the officer and jammed a gun behind his ear.

"If you move or holler, I'll kill you," Gardner warned. "I'm going over the wall and home tonight." "Go ahead, and when you get there, tell the folks you saw me," Captain Parker said.

Parker Gains Time.
Carrigan and Boyd grabbed up the ladder, and started for the wall. Gardner following with the pistol at Captain Parker's head. Captain Parker argued with Gardner in an effort to gain time so that the wall guards could summon help, and bravely told Gardner that if he wanted to blow his brains out to "Go ahead, but it won't get you anywhere."

"We're going home tonight," Carrigan exclaimed. "Urbaytis has got Old Finn (one of the guards) covered down by the wall."

On arriving at the wall, the prisoners started to put the heavy ladder up, but were warned by Guard Hayes, from Tower No. 4, that he would shoot the first man up. "Shall I shoot?" Hayes asked. "No," Parker replied, with the gun still at his head, "get back out of the way where you won't get shot." Guard Hents slipped up and slugged Urbaytis with his club, and then stumbled over the race track embankment. Urbaytis retaliated with a blow of the gun on Guard Hents' head, dropped the gun, and Boyd picked it up.

"We'll go out through the corridors," Gardner decided, and Captain Parker, realizing an opportunity to trap the prisoners, told them to go ahead. Guard Hayes wanted to know again if he should shoot, and Gardner took a pot shot at the watch-tower, but missed the guard.

Andrews Locked Out.

Arriving at the rear door, Captain Parker ordered Guard Nixon to let the party of Gardner, Urbaytis, Boyd and Carrigan through. This was done, and the two Andrews, who were following, were locked out, in spite of a threat by Gardner to kill Nixon. On arriving at the second door, Gardner ordered Captain Parker to open the door, and in an effort to intimidate Parker, Captain Parker calmly replied by tossing his keys through the grating. Realizing that they were cornered, with Guard Dean on the other side of the door waiting for a chance to shoot, Gardner surrendered to Parker, handing over his gun, and asking that Parker not let anybody hurt them.

Realizing that the game was up, Boyd surrendered his gun and Urbaytis a club wrested from Guard Buntz when Parker called on them to surrender, and the captain then marched the four men down into the solitary cells, while the two Andrews also were placed under arrest and confined.

Only four shots were fired during the entire affair, and these were from Gardner's gun, three in the yard and one in the corridor, it was said. Reports from an authentic source Thursday were that none of the guards fired a shot for fear of hitting Parker. After putting his prisoners into solitary confinement, Captain Parker returned to the yard and aided in herding the inmates to their cells.

There were no rocks thrown by the prisoners in the yard during the trouble. It was learned Thursday from an authentic source. It was said, however, that some of the prisoners, realizing the trouble when Gardner began firing, "boomed" and began cursing the guards. Other than this, however, there was no demonstration, it was said.

police asking him to check the information. A reply was received almost immediately from Tampa authorities stating that Mrs. Heath was there after having escaped from Fair in Lakeland and that Lakeland officers had been asked to arrest Fair for Atlanta police. Lakeland officers believe Fair has left that city, it is stated.

The telegrams exchanged were as follows: To Griffin from Mrs. Heath: "Wire money at once for me to come home and watch out. Send to W. Bouterse, 1102 Tampa street, Tampa, Fla.," from Chief Connolly to Tampa chief of police, "See W. Bouterse, 1102 Tampa street, and ascertain if Mrs. W. O. Heath is stranded there. Also ascertain if Fred D. Fair is in Tampa, wanted here on warrants," from Captain L. R. Hodges, of the Tampa police force, to Chief Connolly. "Have had talk with Mrs. Heath, she escaped from Fair at Lakeland today. He have asked Lakeland to apprehend Fair at address of his sister there."

The news of Mrs. Heath's appearance in Tampa closely followed a message from Augusta, Ga., that a woman's unidentified body had been found in the Savannah river near there and that authorities thought that it might be that of the missing woman. On the receipt of a detailed description from the chief of police at Augusta, however, Griffin stated that he was sure that the body could not be that of his sister.

Zink is Recovering.

Although Zink is rapidly recovering from his wounds authorities have indicated that his three assailants will be prosecuted regardless of whether they can prove a case of mistaken identity and indictments already have been returned against them, charging assault with intent to kill, and carrying a dangerous weapon.

The two Griffins have been released under $2,500 bonds but Heath is still in Fulton county tower in default of similar bond.

When informed in the jail that his wife had been located in Tampa, Heath was overjoyed because he thought that the body found near Augusta was that of Mrs. Heath despite the fact that her brother did not share his belief.

STORY OF ABDUCTION RELATED BY WOMAN

Tampa, Fla., July 19.—(AP)—A woman, who said she was Mrs. Kitty Heath, of Atlanta, Ga., sought the aid of police here today to search for the man who, she claimed, kidnapped her from in front of her home in Atlanta on July 5 and held her captive 10 days at Lakeland, Fla.

In conference with police for more than an hour, the woman, who said she was 32 years of age, related that she had managed to escape from her abductor today and made her way into Tampa. She gave a description of the alleged kidnaper and the number of the house in Lakeland where she said he kept her under guard.

"I've got you at last. We are heading for Florida," she said her abductor shouted after stopping her and her 15-year-old daughter as they came out of their Atlanta home.

"We traveled all that night, the next day and part of the next night," she said, stopping only at filling stations for gas.

At Lakeland, the woman said, they went to a house where another woman lived. When she cried or remonstrated he threatened and cursed her, she said.

Because she had no money and was watched continually, she said she did not try to escape until this afternoon when the man was away and the other woman in another part of the house. She asserted she ran out and caught a ride from a passing motorist, who took her into Tampa to the Salvation Army home.

Mrs. Heath told police her abductor was Fred Fair, a pressman, of Atlanta, who has a wife in Tennessee. She said he had annoyed her before with unwelcome attentions and on July 1, she had him placed under a peace bond at Griffin, Ga. At that time, she said, she was staying with her father, Henry Griffin, and Fair was ordered away from his house several times. While she was out on a picnic trip with her father and other relatives, she said, Fair followed them and tried to force a collision with their car on the highway. She said she complained to officers at Griffin, who issued the peace bond.

He had started for the retiring room, the door to which the other occupants could not see. That was the last seen of him.

Caused Market Sensation.
Lowenstein was reported to have failed to negotiate a large loan in London—was believed to have disappeared with half a million dollars—was reported to have been seen descending in a parachute.

Stocks of companies in which Lowenstein was interested dropped many points on news of his disappearance and fortunes were lost. Later the stocks recovered on reports that the companies were sound.

In many financial quarters on the continent the report that he was dead never has been accepted, but the mystery of his disappearance remained unexplained.

Experts at Croyden airfield demonstrated that it would have been exceedingly difficult for Lowenstein to have opened the door of his airplane cabin against the terrific wind pressure. The banker, however, was a powerful man and it was conceded he might have opened the door, if bent on suicide.

SENATORS ASSURE SMITH OF VICTORY

Albany, N. Y., July 19.—(AP)—A rosy picture of campaign prospects was presented to Governor Smith by two democratic senators—Tydings, of Maryland, and Hawes, of Missouri—during an overnight visit with the presidential nominee. Before their departure from Albany shortly after noon today, both declared confidence not only that Smith would be elected but that the democrats would control the next congress.

Tydings and Hawes, both former members of the house of representatives, are first termers in the senate. The Marylander is chairman of the democratic senatorial campaign committee, which interests itself chiefly in the election of democrats to the senate, and Hawes is one of its members.

They arrived here last night, were over-night guests at the executive mansion and left for New York to confer with John J. Raskol, new chairman of the democratic national committee, and other party leaders. During their stay here they discussed with the nominee the campaign they intended to conduct, and in addition gave him the benefit of their views on national problems.

Tydings announced that his committee proposed to work in closer cooperation with the national committee

MAN IS ARRESTED IN SERIES OF THEFTS NETTING $1,000,000

Drownings are reported from all sections of Germany almost hourly.

MINE OPERATORS SPURN PEACE BID

Cleveland, July 19.—(AP)—The United Mine Workers in Ohio met prompt refusal today when they invited coal operators of this state to meet them on July 26 to discuss a new wage scale.

The miners' invitation was issued at Columbus by the executive committee of the union a short time after S. H. Robbins, president of the Ohio Coal Operators' association, declared here that operators "would have no further dealings with the United Mine Workers of America." Notified of the invitation Robbins said merely that his previous statement stood and no formal reply to the miners had been made.

The invitation followed action taken yesterday at Indianapolis by the policy committee of the international union giving to each district of the union authority to negotiate separate agreements as to wages. Lee Hall, president of the Ohio district, returned to headquarters at Columbus early today from Indianapolis and immediately issued a call to the executive committee meeting.

Superior, Wis., July 19.—(AP)—Rainy weather kept President Coolidge indoors practically the whole time and prevented Mrs. Coolidge from taking a paddling lesson on the Brule river.

After a short excursion on the Brule early today, Mr. Coolidge was obliged to give up all thoughts of fishing, some correspondence had been brought out to him in the morning that required attention and for the rest of the time he gave thought to the short speech which he will deliver July 29 at Cannon Falls, Minn.

Hungry Mothers And 5 Children Aided by Police

Policemen and reporters at police station Thursday night raised a purse to aid two hungry mothers and five children.

Mrs. Mary Lou Shelby and baby, and her mother, Mrs. Jessie Woods, also with a baby in her arms, and two other daughters, Vivian, 12; Eva, 10; and a 4-year-old son, were sitting on the curb in front of 258 Williams street when their plight was noticed by Lane Lewis, a claim clerk of the A. B. & C. railroad, who went to police station and reported the matter to Night Chief Connolly.

The chief immediately sent Call Officers Higgins, Cartright, Harper and Holland to the scene with orders to bring them in to headquarters. Arriving at the station with their hungry passengers Chief Poole heard their story.

Mrs. Woods, mother of Mrs. Shelby, and four of the small children told the chief that all of them had lived in a two-room hut, near Thomasville for some time, but on the night of July 9, the building was partly destroyed by fire. Then they decided to come to Atlanta to secure work.

By begging, rickles, they arrived here late Wednesday afternoon and a kind-hearted clerk in a small hotel allowed them to spend the night free of charge at his place.

Thursday morning, they were found by Mr. Lewis.

Mrs. Woods said that her husband was an invalid, and was living with relatives in Columbus, Miss., who is only 19, said that her husband recently deserted her and the baby. Officers listened to the stories of the two mothers and then all officers and reporters took up a collection to buy the little family group a good meal.

They spent Thursday night in the matron's ward at headquarters. Today they will again seek work.

At the suggestion of Captain G. C. Fain, all officers on the morning watch contributed when they came on duty at midnight.

TWO FALL ASLEEP IN STOLEN AUTO; FOUND BY POLICE

Chicago, July 19.—(AP)—There is no law against a Madison, Wis., resident sleeping in a Madison, Wis., automobile on Madison street, Chicago. But when the car happens to be stolen and its occupants snore the law must take its course.

It took it with Harry Faber, of Madison, and William Lasker, of Milwaukee, who parked in the loop district at midnight and fell asleep. They snored and guests of a nearby hotel complained.

Police, investigating, found the sleepers garbed in United States marine corps uniforms and might have let them snore undisturbed had they not also found a pair of brass knuckles and two jimmies on the floor of the car.

At headquarters, police found the auto was one reported stolen from Harold Walker, Madison, Wis.

SOCIETY SCORED FOR NEWPORT'S BAN ON STAGE PEOPLE

New York, July 19.—(AP)—Society folk who bathe at the ultra-fashionable Bailey's Beach at Newport have been accused of "snobbishness" for a reputed ban to members of the theatrical profession.

Dorothy Jordan, opera singer, who is the wife of Captain Harry Delrich, nephew of Mrs. William K. Vanderbilt, was so peeved over it all that she summoned reporters to the offices of the Actors' Equity and gave vent to her feelings.

"The whole thing is snobbish and un-American," she said. "I have just enough Irish in me to give them a swat in the eye."

"I know many actors and actresses who are ladies and gentlemen of the highest type. So-called society people are glad enough to call upon the theatrical profession for aid in giving benefits. And they dance with them in night clubs and cabarets. Why aren't they good enough to associate with us as social equals?"

PARK TRACT PRICE IS REDUCED $6,000

Reduction of $6,000 in the purchase price of the Sisson's tract in the eleventh ward for use as a park was obtained Thursday by Mayor I. N. Ragsdale from the Moreland Subdivision, Inc., following an inspection visit to the tract. Mayor Ragsdale announced that he has vetoed the council resolution for the purchase of the tract of 30 acres at a price of $36,000, and in his message to council has pointed out that the property may now be acquired for $50,000.

The vetoed paper will be returned to council at Monday's meeting, and an effort to put through another paper calling for the purchase at the revised price will be made, it was stated at the city hall. Mayor Ragsdale was advised of the reduction in price by C. A. Sisson, president of the subdivision company.

This makes $28,000 that Mayor Ragsdale has saved the city in purchase prices since he took over the reins of office, it was pointed out. The first saving was effected when Mayor Ragsdale obtained a reduction of $20,000 in the purchase of the Persson tract for use as Ragsdale park.

AIRPORT BUILDING WORK IS AWARDED

The contract for the erection of a government building and observation tower at Candler field, to house the weather bureau, radio and postoffice services, was let Thursday to Arthur Pew, Jr., at a price of $5,995 at a meeting of the aviation committee of council. Pew is to start work immediately and has agreed to finish the building within 60 days. He was the low bidder on the job.

The new building is to have three compartments, one to house each of the government branches. The observation tower will be above the level of the hangar roofs, and will be used by the weather bureau for the balloon ascensions by which the condition of the upper air currents is determined. This branch of the weather bureau service is to be transferred from the main office in the Atlanta Trust company building.

The aviation committee decided to ask the county to aid in removing the hump from the middle of the landing field and to extend the runway from east to west by 1,000 feet on the western side of the field. The north and south runway is long enough, Alderman W. B. Hartsfield, chairman of the committee, said.

Sodding of the newly-graded portion of the field is now under way and should be completed within another month, giving the field a firm resistance against rain washes, Mr. Hartsfield said. The sodding work near the hump will be delayed a bit pending the county's answer to the request for assistance in removing the hump, which now acts as an obstacle to planes needing a long runway.

Authority was given the three hangar operators, Eitzen Aviation, Inc., Douglas Davis and Beecher Blevins, to extend the water pipes to the field side of their hangars in order that the ground may be sprinkled and dust kept down, at the owners' expense.

The government radio service at Candler field will be available for any mail route, private or commercial pilot, to become advised of the weather conditions at the point of destination, it was said.

EVANS IS NAMED HEAD OF COLORED YOUNG BAPTISTS

Efficiency was the keynote of the annual address of President John H. Evans at the Thursday morning session of the convention of colored young Baptists at the Greater Wheat Street Baptist church. Dean C. D. Hubert of the School of Religion, Morehouse college, made the opening address, in which he discussed Bible methods of reaching men. He was followed by Dr. J. T. Saxton, of Macon.

A model B. Y. P. U. was conducted by Willie L. Gholston, Atlanta. The convention heard an address from Dr. W. H. Jernon, Washington, D. C., who brought greetings from the National Baptist Sunday school and B. Y. P. U. congress. Sara Williamson, of Monrovia, Liberia, on the African west coast, made an earnest appeal in behalf of the denomination's missionary efforts on the dark continent. One hundred and twenty-five dollars was given in response to this appeal.

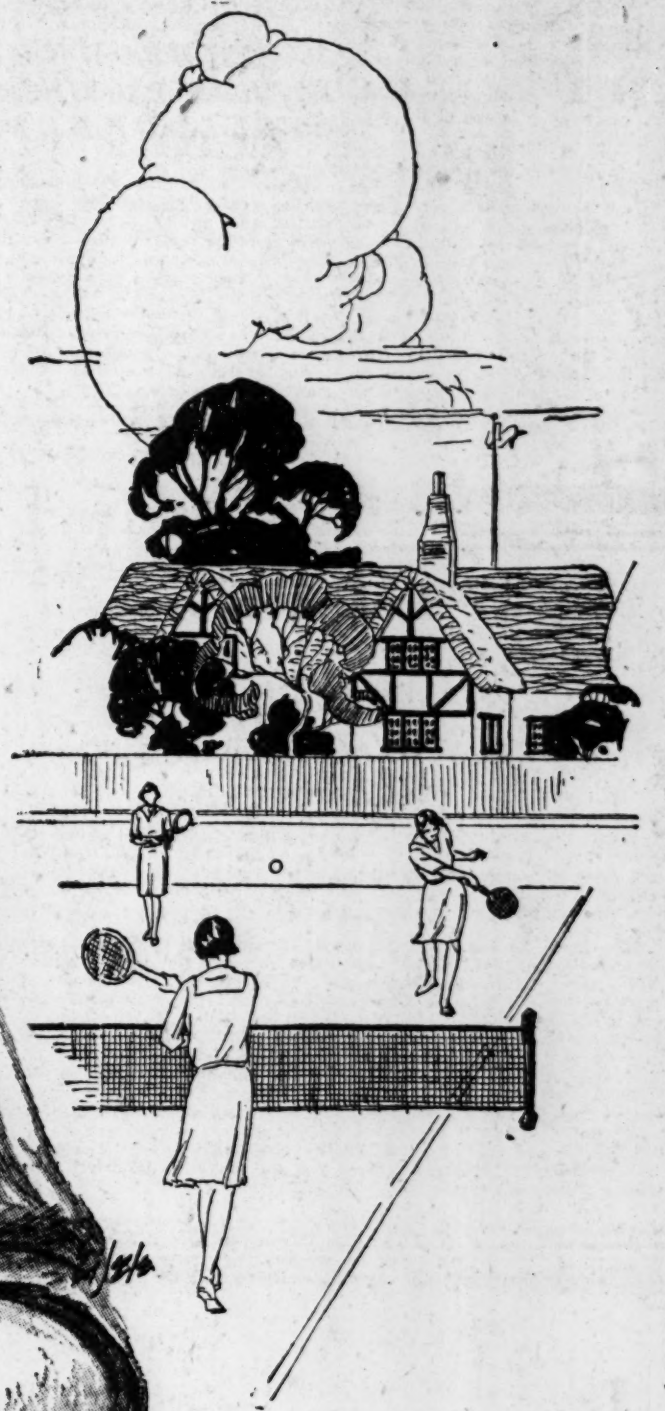

After listening to the annual message of the president and the report of the auditing board the convention proceeded to elect officers for the next year. Dr. J. H. Evans, Macon, was elected to succeed himself as president of Sunday school department. Dr. E. G. Thomas, Savannah, vice president; Dr. H. F. Taylor, Cordle, and Prof. C. H. S. Lyons, Athens, secretaries; Hattie I. Forrest, Valdosta, treasurer.

Cannon and Rev. C. H. Robinson. The convention closes Friday night.

IOWA REPUBLICANS ENDORSE HOOVER

Des Moines, Iowa, July 19.—(AP)—Support of Herbert Hoover and confidence in his ability to offer a constructive solution of the farm relief problem have been given by the republican party in Iowa at the state convention.

Commending the republican nominee yesterday for his statement that the agricultural problem, "will and must be solved," resolutions were adopted urging continued effort in behalf of agricultural legislation through an equalization fee "or by some other means."

The delegates seemed to accept a message brought by Governor John Hamilton, who conferred with Mr. Hoover yesterday at Council Bluffs. The governor, a supporter of Frank O. Lowden earlier in the campaign, wholeheartedly approved the qualifications of the republican nominee and expressed confidence that the stand he would take on the farm issue would be entirely satisfactory to the party in Iowa.

A note of dissent followed the unanimous report of the resolutions committee when Major Frank J. Lund, of Webster City, a proponent of the McNary-Haugen principle and of Mr. Lowden's candidacy, offered from the floor a set of resolutions urging support of the McNary-Haugen bill "until some better remedy is advanced."

Mr. Lund's proposal was defeated. Other speakers who urged support of the Hoover-Curtis ticket were Senator Smith W. Brookhart, Congressman L. J. Dickinson and former Governor W. L. Harding.

Ford's Road Fined; Failed To Collect Demurrage Charges

Detroit, July 19.—(AP)—Henry Ford's railroad, the Detroit, Toledo and Ironton, was fined $20,000 today by Federal Judge Charles C. Simons for violating the Elkins law by failing to collect demurrage charges.

The railroad company was indicted on 75 counts, 25 of them concurrent, by a federal grand jury here last March. It was alleged that in May, 1925, the road failed to charge demurrage on shipments by the Raymond Concrete Pipe company, which held a contract for construction of foundations for new buildings at the Fordson plant of the Ford Motor company.

Through counsel the railroad today pleaded guilty to 20 counts and the remaining counts were dismissed.

RY BEN COOPER.

Gaston B. Means, former department of justice agent, left the Atlanta federal penitentiary Thursday a pauper in purse but not in spirit.

Means, who served 38 months for two convictions on conspiracy charges in connection with prohibition law violations, swore off $20,000 in fines Thursday morning before United States Commissioner E. S. Griffith, and Thursday night, with his wife and son, was on his way to his boyhood home in Concord, N. C., to visit his 73-year-old mother, his weary months of routine in the prison now a thing of memory alone.

"What am I going to do?" Means repeated. "Well, I have no particular plans for the future right now. I'm just so happy to be free again and with my family that I haven't time to give the future a thought. We, the wife and son and I, are going to Washington and New York from Concord, and I'll decide what I'll do for a living after we visit my mother in Concord."

In Good Humor.

Means was in the best of humor Thursday, and when asked by a reporter if he did not believe that it was best to just laugh at reverses, he responded: "Well, what's the use of crying? Means said he believes in meeting everything with a smile, which, if anything, indicates that he is a "game guy."

Released from the penitentiary with only the few dollars allowed prisoners, and the small earnings of his wife as a teacher between them, Means said he is going to start anew and fight his way up the grade for the wife and "kiddie," who have stuck by him so faithfully in the face of everything.

As Means entered the federal building, he was greeted by newspapermen and photographers. Asked to pose, he consented, but said he would rather have the picture taken after the formalities were over with. So, after taking the oath, Means posed to the

Continued fair weather today with temperatures ranging to slightly higher levels was the forecast given Thursday night by C. F. von Herrmann, of the weather bureau here.

While the sun beat strongly on Atlanta throughout Thursday, the highest temperature was 88 degrees, and the lowest 70. It is possible that the mercury will touch 90 today, Mr. von Herrmann said.

Fair weather is expected generally today and the rest of the week, except the time of the extreme southern portion, where light rains may develop to-night.

Bryant's mother is Mrs. W. E. Bryant, Billerica, Mass. Schute's next of kin was given as Mrs. Pearl Friar, Seattle.

NEW U. S. PAPER MONEY NOT READY UNTIL JULY, 1929

Washington, July 19.—(AP)—The new United States paper money which will go into circulation next July 1 in addition to being smaller than the present bills will be signed by the secretary of the treasury instead of the registrar of the treasury, as has been done since the civil war.

A law passed about the time of the civil war required that the United States notes be signed by the registrar and treasurer. A revised law provides that the treasury shall issue the notes in such form as it deems proper.

The signature of the secretary of the treasury has appeared on federal reserve notes but never upon notes of the United States.

lectual cooperation today and later will start preparations for a general review of events connected with the league during the past month.

Mr. Rockefeller already has been initiated in league matters by Arthur Sweetser, Boston, assistant director of the information section, with whom he reached Switzerland yesterday after a stop at Brussels.

The pair visited Hugh R. Wilson, American minister at Berne, and discussed league problems there.

W. C. T. U. TO FIGHT SMITH CANDIDACY

Chicago, July 19.—(AP)—The national office of the Woman's Christian Temperance union has announced the start of a national campaign to prevent Governor Al Smith's election to the presidency. The campaign was instituted, an official statement said, because "in the south and west particularly W. C. T. U. women and other drys are being told that Governor Smith is no more of a wet than Herbert Hoover."

"The saloon record of Governor Al Smith," said the first of the campaign bulletins, "is a fitting prelude to his promise that if he reaches the white house he will lead the way to legalized liquor. For 25 years he has devoted and worked for the Tammany machine, for more saloons, longer hours for the sale of booze, and against prohibition."

"The W. C. T. U. takes issue with Governor Smith in his statement that liquor can be sold legally without the return of the old saloon. In Canada, where the liquor men promised the sale of booze without the saloon, liquor laws are growing more liberal and the saloon is coming back in various forms in clubs, hotels, restaurants and wine rooms. All the old saloon evils are reappearing in Canada."

Abandoned Infant, Taken for Reptile, Crushed to Death

Bronson, Mich., July 19.—(AP)—The story of the killing of a three-day-old baby after it had been left by its unwed mother at the home of her parents, in the hope that they would give the child a home, was being investigated by police here tonight.

The baby was killed by Ward Wessell, 19, who told police he saw the form move in a cardboard box in which it was left by the mother, and thinking it was a snake buried a large stone into the improvised cradle.

The tragedy occurred at the farm home of John Bloom, when Wessell returned to the house with Miss Helen Sigenski, 20, a niece of Mrs. Bloom. Police today obtained an admission from Miss Marie Bloom, 18, a daughter of the family, that the child was born to her Monday night. She hid the infant in an orchard she said, and kept the birth secret from her parents.

Chicago Greeted Lady Lindy, Once Obscure Student

Chicago, July 19.—(AP)—The young woman who left Chicago as a sweet girl graduate came back today as a trans-Atlantic heroine—the first of her sex to span the ocean by air.

For four days Amelia Earhart will be Chicago's guest, visiting again the scenes of her school days and renewing the friendships that once were hers as Hyde Park High school's demure young senior. Despite a strenuous program she has managed to reserve some time for herself.

Accompanied by Wilmer Stultz and Lou Gordon, her trans-Atlantic crew, Miss Earhart was "overwhelmed" by her arrival from the east today. "Overwhelmed" was her own adjective, and she must have meant it from the way the city turned out to greet her. There wasn't a vacant spot from the railroad station to the city hall as her welcoming caravan escorted her from the depot. It required calling on the police details in order to permit the fliers and their welcoming committee to leave the station.

After a brief reception in Mayor William Hale Thompson's office, the first time Friday afternoon at 4:30, she will also be on the program Saturday and Monday night at 8:30 will deliver a general lecture and will close her lectures Tuesday when the institute ends.

Mrs. Turman Speaks.

Mrs. R. L. Turman, of Atlanta, delivered an address before the session of the institute Wednesday.

"One of the things which we were told would benefit our country if the government should be so foolish as to grant women the right to vote was the terrible condition of women holding offices," Mrs. Turman said.

"But those women who worked so hard to get a right to vote had no idea of holding office, and since women have been granted the right to vote," the speaker continued, "a few women have attempted to hold offices."

Mrs. Turman pointed out that when women did run for offices and win out they were in most cases the best candidate in the race. She also said that women are well contented with having the men hold the offices.

"However, we have had a number of outstanding women officeholders," she continued, "and in most cases they have been successful in their administrations."

"We have had two women governors, one of whom was elected largely because she was the widow of a governor who had died while in office, while the other was elected to vindicate the good name of her husband."

"Many women throughout the country are elected and making good without any special family prestige from their male relatives."

Dr. Ashby Jones, formerly of Atlanta, in his lecture to the institute discussed the lobbying in regard to governmental legislation.

"There are paid representatives," Dr. Jones said, "with headquarters in our capital city whose purpose it is to look after the special interests of their particular enterprise."

"Is that idea of special representation before the legislature opposed to our conception of a democratic government?" Dr. Jones asked.

"The simplest idea of democracy," the speaker continued, "is the expression of the people through the ballot box. The will of the people ought to find its expression through the ballot box."

"In a campaign we are supposed to discuss the platform in detail and the candidate should interpret the issues of the platform and go to Congress obligated to carry out the will of the people. This is one idea of representation."

Dr. Jones stated that another idea of representation was to choose men of the very highest type and send them to Congress to act as they may see fit.

"The day will come," Dr. Jones said in conclusion, "when we are going to demand the higher type of men and the higher type will answer."

DANIEL ROUNTREE, LOCAL ATTORNEY, INJURED IN PARIS

Paris, July 19.—(United News)—Daniel W. Rountree, of Atlanta, Ga., was seriously injured Wednesday while disembarking from the steamer Majestic at Cherbourg. An automobile ran him down. One of the customs agents conducted him to a hotel and announced all costs of treatment would be paid.

Mr. Rountree, who is a member of the law firm of Henderson, Rountree and Crenshaw, has been prominent in local legal circles for 40 years. He left Atlanta on the 10th of this month and sailed from New York for Europe on the 12th, according to advice from his office.

He was accompanied by Joseph Lepore, also of Atlanta, and was planning to spend about six months on the continent and in England. His associates Thursday said they had not heard of his accident.

KLAN ABANDONS PUBLIC PARADES UNTIL AFTER POLL

Chicago, July 19.—(AP)—The Ku Klux Klan will hold no more public parades until after the presidential election in November, it was announced tonight by Hiram W. Evans, imperial wizard, as the national "klauvocation" closed.

Evans declared the Klan plans no open opposition to the candidacy of Governor Smith, but he stated that the Klan stands on what is regarded as a major issue in the presidential campaign is directly opposed to that of the democratic candidate.

"We oppose the foreign influences of Catholicism," he said, "we favor prohibition and immigration restrictions. However, we shunned political issues in our klauvocation."

The four-day secret meeting was attended by 350 delegates.

FRANCE NOMINATES CHARLES E. HUGHES TO WORLD COURT

Geneva, Switzerland, July 19.—(AP)—Nomination by France today of Charles Evans Hughes, of the United States, for the vacant judgeship on the world court, with Dr. Walter Simons, of Germany, as second choice, has virtually narrowed the choice for the place to these two.

Observers here are well convinced that Mr. Hughes will be elected. They base this not only on the fact that the vacancy in the court was caused by the retirement of another American, John Bassett Moore, but also on the probability that the court is likely to be enlarged within a year and in that event the additional place would provide a seat for the president of the supreme court of Germany.

Bill Is Announced To Separate Florida Into Two States

West Palm Beach, Fla., July 19.—(AP)—R. E. Oliver, a representative in the state legislature from Palm Beach county, announced here today that he would introduce a bill at the next session of the legislature calling for a division of the state and formation of the separate state of South Florida.

SFORZA TO SPEAK AT ATHENS MEET

Athens, Ga., July 19.—Count Carlo Sforza, world war veteran, statesman and diplomat of Italy, arrived here Thursday afternoon to make a series of lectures before the Institute of Politics and Public Affairs at the University of Southern Georgia. Count Sforza resigned his position in Italy on account of his opposition to fascism as led by Mussolini.

In 1911 the count became Italian minister to China, being then the youngest minister in the Italian service, and was later minister to the king of Serbia. After the war he went to Constantinople and in 1919 became a member of the Italian senate and soon became secretary of state for foreign affairs. He took part in the post Versailles conference at Spa, London and Paris. Later he was ambassador to France and that post he resigned when fascism became general in Italy. He is still an Italian senator and during the past several years has written a number of interesting articles for various magazines and dailies.

He is one of the most interesting of all the lecturers at the summer school and will be on the program for the first time Friday afternoon at 4:30. He will also be on the program Saturday and Monday night at 8:30 will deliver a general lecture and will close his lectures Tuesday when the institute ends.

THOMAS COUNTY ELECTS OFFICERS IN RECORD BALLOT

Thomasville, Ga., July 19.—Thomas county polled the biggest vote in the county democratic primary election yesterday in the history of the county, around 3,100 having cast out of a registration of slightly less than 4,000.

The count of votes, which was not concluded until after 4 o'clock this morning, showed Gordon E. Davis, incumbent, reelected sheriff over Piny Braswell, Charles E. Mason and G. G. Hancock.

William M. Jones was reelected judge of the court of ordinary over Robert S. Burch and D. M. Baker. Cyrus M. Heath was reelected tax collector, defeating J. F. Briddell.

J. Gorham Garrison retains the office of county school superintendent by a small majority over W. E. Nichols.

With seven candidates for tax receiver, Fred S. Norton, incumbent, led the ticket, but under the new majority rule in use here to run in a second primary with G. B. Isler, who had next high vote. B. B. Earle and William W. Alexander, for city court solicitor, also go into a second primary, being two highest of four candidates for that office.

Newly elected to the board of county commissioners are J. Frank Pittman, unopposed; F. L. Bradshaw, G. F. Hicks, R. W. McMillan and Lawrence W. Hiner. Judge Hugh McIntire, of Thomasville, city court; superior court clerk, Fred Singletary; county surveyor, E. E. Bishop, and county coroner, J. D. Cooper were unopposed.

SEEK TO EXTRADITE ALLEGED SLAYER OF GEORGIA WOMAN

Rocky Ford Lad To Receive Medal for Saving Two Girls

Savannah, Ga., July 19.—(AP)—A silver medal of the United States treasury department will be presented to Albert F. Coleman, 16, of Rocky Ford, for heroism in rescuing two girls from drowning in the Ogeechee river in February of 1925. The medal, which is of silver and strikingly decorated in heroic vein, has been received by Congressman Charles G. Edwards, who was instrumental in having the award made.

The rescue was effected by young Coleman early in the morning as he was on his way to school. Miss Mary Lane and Edith Lane, while walking across temporary footways built by citizens of Rocky Ford across the unusually high waters of the Ogeechee, slipped and fell into the icy stream. Neither girl knew how to swim. Young Coleman, although handicapped by heavy clothing, plunged into the river and after a few minutes of courageous work succeeded in saving both girls from drowning, the account relates.

The treasury department required less than three months in authorizing the award of the medal, after the reported heroism of Coleman had been called to their attention by Congressman Edwards. Mr. Edwards had been advised of the rescue by Hon. S. E. Bolton, tax receiver for Screven county.

A marine scene depicting the sea, a woman apparently walking over the waves, and a man with arms outstretched as though to seize the woman, is in relief on the silver medal. Inscriptions bear "United States of America" and at the bottom of the medal is engraved "Authorized by act of congress, June 20, 1874."

The name of the rescuer is engraved within a wreath on the reverse side, while around the edges is inscribed, "In testimony of saving life from the perils of the sea."

Although arrangements for presentation of the medal have not been completed, Screven county officials have been apprised of receipt of the award, and it is expected that a celebration will be arranged, during which Congressman Edwards will bestow the medal.

Lawrenceville, Ga., July 19.—At a meeting of the stockholders of the Brand Banking company, held here Wednesday, Congressman Charles H. Brand, of Athens, was elected president of the institution to fill the vacancy occasioned by the death of L. M. Brand on July 8. The institution is considered one of the strongest of its kind in the state.

It came through the depression in splendid financial condition when no less than six banks throughout the county were forced to close their doors. The Brand bank was organized in 1903 with E. M. Brand, father of C. H. and L. M. Brand, as president, with a capital stock of $25,000 and through shrewd management and good banking judgment, the stock was increased to $50,000, and it now has a surplus of $50,000 and undivided profits of over $64,000. The deposits have increased over $135,000 in the last year; they now are over $697,000, with loans of over $453,000. The institution is nearing the million-dollar mark.

The clientele are well pleased with the selection of Judge Brand as president.

DEFECTIVE RAIL CAUSE OF WRECK

Washington, July 19.—(AP)—A transverse fissure in a rail was ascribed by Southern railway officials today as the cause of the wreck near Rome, Ga., last night, in which one man was killed and about 15 others were injured.

H. W. Miller, vice president of the road, said today that no method had ever been found for detecting the existence of a transverse fissure. He said 9 cars had passed safely over the defective rail before it gave way. He also declared the road where the wreck occurred was equipped with block signals and automatic train control.

He attached no blame to the road's maintenance forces, who, he said, could not possibly have spotted such an unseen flaw in a piece of steel.

A report to Mr. Miller today said the rail was broken into seven pieces, ranging from 21 feet to one foot 11 inches in length. The transverse fissure extended through four of the breaks.

Mr. Miller said the rail was a new one, having been laid in December, 1926.

Speeding Planes To Try Transfer Of Mail Sacks

A new aeronautical feat, which, it is expected, is to prove a boon to the air-mail industry, is to be attempted at Candler field this afternoon, when, through the cooperation of Doug Davis and Swanne Taylor, director of the two-day air derby to be held at the airport on July 28 and 29, a test flight will be made in which two "dummy" sacks of air mail will be transferred from one plane to another, speeding at the rate of 100 miles per hour, at an altitude of 2,000 feet. This, it is said, will be the first experiment of its kind ever attempted.

Pilot Davis will be at the controls of one ship, while either Swanne Taylor or R. L. Stephens will pilot the other. One plane is to reach an altitude of about 2,000 feet, with the second plane about 30 feet beneath. A rope is to be dropped from the higher ship and grasped by the pilot of the lower, when the bags will be sent down the rope to the other plane, completing the transfer.

A third ship which is to accompany the pair will be piloted by J. R. Armstrong and will carry a messenger, Dudley Read of the Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer newsreel corporation. From a close range, the photographer will click the proceedings of the experiment and the results be shown in local theaters next week.

Davis is to fly his favorite Waco biplane while the other plane will be a Travelair biplane.

RUNAWAY HORSE INJURES ITS DRIVER IN 3-BLOCK DASH

The days of the horse and buggy were dramatically recalled to several spectators who Thursday afternoon watched the mad course of a runaway horse which dragged a damaged wagon for several blocks along Luckie street after he had thrown and slightly injured the driver near the intersection of Magnolia and Luckie streets.

According to Ben McMillan, driver for the Atlanta-Linden Supply company, things were progressing smoothly as he made his rounds along Luckie street until a wheel suddenly dropped from the wagon, near Magnolia street. The sudden jolt frightened the horse and he lunged forward into a gallop, throwing his driver to the pavement and dashing on for about three blocks, then stopping and docilely awaiting his driver as if nothing had happened.

McMillan was slightly bruised and lacerated about the right leg by his fall and after he had secured his horse went to Grady hospital, where his injuries were treated.

RADIO LEGAL FIGHT IS NOT EXPECTED

BY MARTIN CODEL
(Copyright, 1928 by North American)

Washington, D. C., July 19.—Prospects of litigation to test the constitutionality of the radio law and the legality of the acts of the federal radio commission under the law have been diminished by the likelihood that many of the recently condemned broadcasting stations will win licenses renewal because they have presented such convincing proof to the commission that they have a right to exist.

Even the new formed independent broadcasters' association, comprising about thirty of the smaller stations, is not expected to have occasion to go to court as it has threatened. If most of its 25 members ordered off the air August 1, are released to continue operating, the "war chest" of the association probably will be insufficient to carry on expensive litigation.

If any cases are carried to the courts, they probably will be designed to test the power of the commission to order wave lengths and power changes. Three cases have been instituted in the District of Columbia courts, where the law requires that appeals from the commission must be carried. Each has collapsed by reason of the withdrawal of the appellant, so no court cases face the commission at this time.

Members of the commission repeatedly have asserted their desire to test the power of the commission to have the radio law tested. The reluctance of some of the disgruntled stations to go to the courts in the past is not due alone to the expense entailed. Attorneys for one of the appellants in the three cases started last year expressed an opinion that the radio act of 1927, is "utterly impossible" and would be "impossible to upset."

CHRISTIAN UNIONS OF UNIVERSALISTS TO CONVENE HERE

Delegates to the annual convention of the Young People's Christian unions of the Universalist churches of the United States and Canada, in session at Ferry Beach, Maine, chose Atlanta as the meeting place for the 1928 convention at their final session Wednesday. Miss Marian Fisher and Miss Gage Blodson represented the Atlanta organization at the Ferry Beach convention, and their friends are congratulating them on their success in bringing the 1928 convention to Atlanta.

RADIO-ING The Air Waves.

BY THE DIAL TWISTER.
Victor Herbert's "Chinese Serenade" will be sung as a soprano solo by Olive Palmer tonight during the Palmolive hour. The program will come over WSB and other NBC chain stations at 8 o'clock. The other half of the Palmolive lovers, Paul Oliver, tenor, shows an equal familiarity with distant places in "I'll Sing Thee Songs of Araby." Before the hour is over, they will unite in a duet, singing "I Love You."

The Palmolive trio will be heard in vocal arrangements of "Happy Go Lucky Lane" and "Forgetting You." Symphonic offerings will be Goldman's "Vell Dance" from the "Queen of Sheba" and "Fete Boheme." In addition there will be the usual variety of vocal and instrumental novelties.

A varied program ranging from jazz tunes, old-time songs, modern operetta excerpts, instrumental and vocal specialties and orchestral numbers will be presented during the Wrigley review over WSB and NBC stations at 7 o'clock tonight.

"Twelfth Street Rag," a xylophone solo; "Drizzle, Drizzle," a novelty duo, and "Crazy Rhythm," an orchestral number, are all light, merry tunes which should amuse King Spear and his court. A vocal trio of Spear men will present "The Gypsy's Warning" and "Better Get Out of My Way."

Orchestral selections will include "Turkish Patrol," by Michaelis; "Hiko-Hiko," by Luder, and "Eleanor."

Programs in central standard time. Add one hour for central daylight time. All times in p. m. unless otherwise indicated. Wavelets on left of call letters, kilocycles on right.

Two Letters of Greatest Importance to the People of Georgia

1. Mr. Howard E. Coffin to Governor Hardman

Honorable L. G. Hardman,
Executive Mansion,
Atlanta, Georgia.

July 9, 1928.

My dear Governor:

For nearly seventeen years I have maintained a home on the coast of Georgia and both my family and myself have come to love it in all seasons of the year in preference to any other part of the world.

It has long been my desire to create here in this territory a distinctive year-round Sea Island home colony where discriminating people, regardless of means, may enjoy all the advantages of these delightful islands heretofore available only to a favored few. For two years now, I have been quietly working toward the realization of this ideal.

Those who have recently visited Saint Simons and Glynn Isle can best realize what has already been accomplished in transforming this beauty spot of the Atlantic Coast into a picturesque residential community to be known as Sea Island Beach.

It has been one of my greatest cares to preserve the wonderful natural grandeur of these "Golden Isles" of the Spanish Main for two hundred years among the prized possessions of the Don and so rich in the romance and history of that earliest struggle between European nations for dominance in this newly discovered Western Empire.

The unusual natural advantages of this Island Paradise have been greatly enhanced by the well directed expenditure of large sums of money. Experts from among the country's best have been called into consultation in connection with this work. To Nature's generous setting of forest and stream, of sea and glorious beach, of great fertility of soil and a healthful year round climate, there has now been added everything essential to the comfort and enjoyment of life at its very best.

There are paved motor boulevards everywhere. There is a golf course, second to no other in the South, nestled down among the great live oaks of the "King's Retreat Plantation" and bordered by the waters of the Florida Passage.

There are the Yacht and Tennis Clubs and the Sea Island Casino with its fresh water swimming pool and its six miles of the finest beach in America. There are bridle paths everywhere for the horseman and a polo field is planned for early construction.

I believe that nowhere else in the United States is there to be found such a variety of game and seaford as in this Georgia Coast Country. A sixty thousand acre hunting and camping preserve has been made available under proper restrictions for the enjoyment of patrons and guests.

Last and perhaps most important of all, there is now nearing completion at Sea Island Beach, a friendly little hotel, a gem of Mediterranean architecture from the design of Addison Mizner.

I am fully convinced that all these improvements, including, of course, such essentials as telephones, electric lights, water works, and adequate motor bus transportation, combined with such proper restrictions as protect the investor, give very definite assurance of the creation of an Island Community, primarily for Georgians, but destined also to play no small part in extending our State's reputation and influence throughout the North as well as among our neighbors in the South.

In fact, I believe it is not too much to hope, that we are creating here in this Coastal Island setting, a delightful rendezvous where Georgians may fittingly welcome to this state, the strangers from without her gates and thus establish lasting intimacies and a mutually beneficial intermingling of interests with those prominent in the industrial and political affairs of the country.

Sincerely yours,
HOWARD E. COFFIN.

2. Governor Hardman to Mr. Coffin

Mr. Howard E. Coffin, President,
Sea Island Company,
Saint Simons Island, Georgia.

July 12, 1928.

My dear Mr. Coffin:

Replying to your letter of July 9th, I want to express not only in my own behalf, but also in behalf of the State of Georgia, profound appreciation of a man and citizen with your ideals—your creative vision, your marvelous accomplishments for, and contributions to our State—and the South, in the development of her Coastal section.

Then, too, Mrs. Hardman and I having been guests in your beautiful home, and recipients of the cordial hospitality of yourself and Mrs. Coffin—and having seen the enhancement of these "Golden Isles" which expenditures of time and money have transformed into a veritable "Island Paradise," I can speak personally of the advantages of a year-round residence on these delightful islands, where not only guests, but reporters, photographers and moving-picture men all seem to reflect your enthusiasm in "transforming this beauty spot of the Atlantic Coast into a picturesque residential community, where the man of moderate means may enjoy the advantages heretofore available only to those of wealth."

I deeply appreciate and highly commend your every effort toward the development of Georgia's Coast Country. The preservation of a sixty thousand acre hunting and camping tract where a great variety of game and sea food can be found, is in itself a splendid accomplishment.

The natural attractions of this exquisitely beautiful Sea Island Beach are varied and marked. We find here majestic forests, beautiful streams—the sea and an unusually attractive beach, fertile soil and a healthful year-round climate. The paved motor boulevards are quite alluring. The golf, yacht and tennis clubs, and the Sea Island Casino, furnish varied amusement, as will the polo field now in course of construction. In fact, everything is planned for the comfort and enjoyment of the year-round resident.

In closing, I should like to say that I agree with you in your belief that the creation of this Island Community will play no small part in extending our State's reputation and influence throughout every section of our country, and in so doing greatly stimulate the development of our natural resources. With kindest personal regards, and wishing for you all success in your every undertaking for the development of our Coastal section, I am,

Very sincerely yours,

L. G. HARDMAN,
Governor of Georgia.

COURT OVERRULES TALMADGE PLEA

McRae, Ga., July 19.—(Special.) Judge Eschel Graham of the Oconee circuit superior court today overruled the demurrers of Eugene Talmadge, commissioner of agriculture, to the petitions for mandamus brought against Talmadge by the fertilizer inspectors in the Telfair superior court.

The overruling of these demurrers means that the judge holds that under the allegations in the petition, the inspectors were improperly removed from office.

The judge also ruled that it is a jury question as to whether the inspectors are entitled to receive and be retained in office, depending on whether Talmadge acted in good faith in removing the men from office and on whether the men filed their suits within a proper time after their dismissal. No appeal is taken to higher courts. The jury questions will be tried at the regular term of the Telfair court in October.

The inspectors were dismissed from office on June 25, 1927. Suit was filed by the short term inspectors in March, 1928 and by the long term inspectors in April, 1928.

The short term inspectors involved in the suit are: A. A. Seymour, A. L. Russell, I. H. Fowler, H. W. Zellers, C. M. Harmon, H. W. Clatt, R. N. Michael, W. P. Bell, James H. Matthews, S. I. Carter, T. J. Wilson, C. C. Urquhart, Guy O. Stone, E. C. Gammage, C. I. Fanner, Julian Silver, A. J. Collier. There are forty short term inspectors but suits were filed by these seventeen.

The long term filing suit were: T. J. McRae, T. M. Myers, I. H. Cordell and G. L. McDonald.

The inspectors were represented by J. T. Sick of Elberton, and W. S. Mann, of McRae. Lawyers for Mr. Talmadge were G. M. Napier and T. K. Gress of the attorney generals office, S. P. New of Dublin, J. K. Whaley, R. W. Cooper, and L. C. Harrell, of McRae.

'Mme. Tchaikovsky' Sought Seclusion in New York

This is the third article by Gled E. Botkin, son of the physician to the late czar of Russia, covering the experiences of "Mme. Tchaikovsky," whom he recognizes as the Grand Duchess Anastasia of Russia.

BY GLED E. BOTKIN.

Copyright, 1928, by North American Newspaper Alliance.

When he had evaded the reporters by smuggling the grand duchess to the Cunard dock by way of the freight automobile and raced uptown in New York to the home of an American friend.

The grand duchess was completely unnerfed by her experience. We left her in seclusion the rest of the day. From then on I saw her almost daily. In spite of the improvement in health which I had noted on the ship, it was apparent that her nervous condition was still far from satisfactory.

The first days in New York were difficult for the grand duchess. It was generally thought that she was with Mrs. Leeds at Oyster Bay. As a matter of fact, she remained in New York city for three weeks after her arrival. During that time she had many hours of depression, sitting in silence, almost unconscious of things about her. What her thoughts were in those moments one fears to guess.

After several days in her new surroundings the grand duchess became more accustomed to the new mode of life.

Possesses Quick Mind.

Earlier in these articles I said that my talks with the grand duchess since her arrival in New York had convinced me more than ever that she was Anastasia Nikolaevna, youngest daughter of the czar. That is not exactly what I should have said. My conviction could not have been greater when I left Germany.

What I meant to convey was that in my conversations with the grand duchess immediately after her arrival in America, there appeared in greater outline and clarity the personality I knew in the child, Anastasia. And, also, traits of character that bore a striking resemblance to other members of the imperial family.

What amazed me was her education and keen interest in the affairs of the world. One would think a person who had been through what she had been through would have lost all track of world events. This is not the case with the grand duchess. She takes a keen interest in religion, politics, social customs, art, literature—in fact, all aspects of life. Her comments on affairs are often pungent and witty.

The only apparent effect of her prolonged illness and seclusion upon her ideas is a certain naivete and childishness she exhibits in connection with the practical matters of everyday life. And, of course, the hypersensitiveness and spells of melancholia I have spoken of.

Avoid Painful Subjects.

At first the grand duchess and I discussed only general things. All having to do with her life in the past, time were only her hostess, myself, several close friends, her nurse and the servants, made every effort to keep away from subjects that might arouse painful memories.

Few persons could have been a witness of such terrible events and few have seen so much of the abhorrent side of human nature as has the grand duchess; yet she is not bitter. But neither has she any illusions. She knows people are difficult to trust. She has been approached by so many ostensible friends who later turned out to be enemies she prefers to have but little to do with strangers as possible and to live in complete seclusion.

Explaining this, she said to me in one of our first conversations: "They all appear as kind as angels at first. Then they do horrible things."

If the grand duchess has any bitterness at all it is only toward certain persons; never toward the world in general.

The radio was a great solace to the grand duchess. It is the first days of her residence in New York as it is now. Her taste in music is classical. The day of her introduction to the radio revealed a broad musical knowledge. At the first strains of an orchestral selection from the classics she would name the composer. Her favorites are Beethoven, Tchaikovsky and Schubert.

Has Contempt of Jazz.

For jazz, as for modern art, the grand duchess has an amused contempt. On viewing the reproduction of a modern French painting in an American magazine she said: "They can't draw human figures; they have to invent this sort of thing."

In these conversations the grand duchess revealed a strong likeness of mind to her father, particularly on questions of government. One of the few times we touched upon the Russian revolution, she said:

"You cannot blame the plain people for all the horrors committed during the revolution. The peasants were illiterate and had no education at all. How can you blame them? Those to blame are the aristocracy. In Russia they never thought of the lower classes; the aristocrats had no sense in duty. I think that when one has power, wealth and education one also has the obligation of helping and teaching those who haven't got it."

Another time discussing some notorious members of a European royal house the grand duchess said to me:

"It is terrible that they behave that way. They ought to think about the feelings of other people. I have met people, especially in Germany, who imagine that members of royalty are all saints. There are Germans who still actually worship Emperor Wilhelm."

Duty of Royalty.

"Royalties ought to think of that and not hurt people who believe in them. They must serve as an example to their people; they should never do improper things, least of all publicly. It is demoralizing for the people."

Consideration of the common people seems to be foremost in her mind when she discusses the Russian situation. In her utterances I often heard almost the exact repetition of opinions the emperor used to express in private conversations with members of his immediate entourage.

One of the grand duchess' outstanding characteristics is tolerance and broadmindedness. She is sincerely religious but free of any fanaticism or denominational beliefs.

We were discussing once a Russian lady who is fanatically religious. I expressed my dislike for her narrow-mindedness. The grand duchess smiled and said:

"You shouldn't criticize her that way because she is quite sincere. What I dislike is hypocrisy. Her faith seems to be rather naive but I know she is sincere that it makes her happy. One should never destroy in people the faith that helps them to live."

In matters of politics her natural inclinations and her subconscious turn of mind is monarchistic. But she does not believe monarchy is the only possible form of government as do so many monarchists.

Interested in America.

She questioned me at length about the American form of government. She was much interested. Several phases of it impressed her particularly and she said that Russia could learn a few things from America.

Once we were talking about a Russian, who lives in this country, but being fanatically monarchistic always professes his dislike of the United States because it is a republic. The grand duchess was displeased with him.

"Silly," she said, "very silly of him. Russians ought to be grateful they are permitted to live here. Americans want a republic. Why shouldn't they have a republic? They have an excellent government. Russians who live here have no right to criticize it."

The grand duchess remained in New York three weeks. During that time she met few Americans, all of whom were kind and friendly to her. She frequently expressed her gratitude for this to me.

Preparations to receive the grand duchess at Mrs. Leeds' residence on Long Island having been completed, she removed to Oyster Bay early in March.

CHALLENGES COURSE OF WILLIAM B. LEEDS.

Copyright, 1928, by North American Newspaper Alliance.

New York, July 19.—Gled E. Botkin, son of the personal physician to the late czar of Russia and the man who was responsible for bringing "Mme. Tchaikovsky," whom he says is the grand duchess Anastasia, to the United States, today challenged the authority of William B. Leeds, son of the tinsmith king and present host of the tinsmith king and present host of the tinsmith king and present host of the tinsmith king.

Mr. Leeds, who is the husband of the Princess Xenia of Greece, yesterday issued a statement denying "Mme. Tchaikovsky's" claim to any funds left by the emperor.

Prompt Steps Necessary.

"Unless prompt steps are taken to register a protest in the name of the Grand Duchess Anastasia," Mr. Botkin said, "whatever money may have been deposited for her in the Bank of England will be claimed by her two aunts, the Grand Duchesses Olga and Xenia, who have refused publicly to recognize the Grand Duchess Anastasia as the rightful heiress of the czar. This is unjust to the Grand Duchess Anastasia and is not in accordance with her wishes."

"I can understand Mrs. Leeds' desire to remain aloof from a family quarrel of the Romanoffs," Mr. Botkin said, "but it is only fair that the Grand Duchess Anastasia shall have an opportunity to establish her identity in the courts before money left by the late emperor to his daughters is paid to their aunts, the Grand Duchesses Olga and Xenia."

Supporters of the Grand Duchess Anastasia were interested only in obtaining a haven for her in this country. Mr. Botkin said, and it was not until she had been deposited for her in the Bank of England will be claimed by her two aunts, the Grand Duchesses Olga and Xenia, who have refused publicly to recognize the Grand Duchess Anastasia as the rightful heiress of the czar.

RAGSDALE PARK PROBE WILL OPEN ON JULY 28

Investigation of rumors concerning the purchase by the city of the Parkerson tract now known as Ragdsdale park, will get under way on July 28 at the city hall, it became known Thursday when City Clerk Walter C. Taylor was requested to send out a call and subpoenas for the meeting.

Alderman W. B. Harfield is chairman of the committee.

The investigation was ordered by council at the request of Alderman G. E. Millican, of the tenth ward, who said that certain rumors have alleged that he obtained money from the purchase, and that he wants these rumors investigated in order that his name may be cleared.

Subpoenas were issued to Sam P. Cronheim, real estate agent; W. T. Perkerson, representing the Parkerson estate; J. B. Smith, who secured the tract on the property; officials of the Atlanta and Lowry National bank, who handled the check for the purchase; the three present members of general council from the tenth ward, Alderman Millican and Councilmen W. G. Cooper and Charles M. Ford, and the recent councilman from that ward, Frank Callaway.

RIGHT TO DISCONTINUE TWO TRAINS SOUGHT

Because bus and trolley car competition between Jonesboro and Atlanta has been a factor in the Central of Georgia railroad's plan to reduce the passenger haul of their suburban noon trains to an average of approximately 12 per trip, the Central of Georgia railroad asks permission to discontinue trains No. 104 and 105. The railroad will be given a hearing on August 1, James A. Perry, chairman of the railroad commission, advised H. D. Pollard, vice president and general manager of the Central of Georgia system.

TOTS, GIVEN CHOICE OF PARENTS, DECIDE IN FAVOR OF FATHER

The young son and daughter of W. J. Mann, an Atlanta printer, who was divorced from his wife 4 years ago, Thursday were allowed by Judge Virlyn B. Moore, in Fulton superior court, to choose between a home with their father here or a home with their mother, since remarried and living in Detroit.

Both the boy, 11 years old, and the girl, 13 years old, said they wished to remain with their father, where they have lived since the divorce. The mother was awarded custody of the children 4 years ago, but neglected to take advantage of the court decree, Mr. Mann said.

The mother, Mrs. Lauretta Powell, came to Atlanta a few days ago, bringing proceedings to gain custody of the children. Judge Moore, after consulting the youngsters, declined to issue the order she asked.

The men were described as ex-convicts wanted in Kansas City. They are believed to be the same who passed through Atlanta July 11, stopping long enough to cash two postoffice money orders, both raised from $8 to $80.

The Taming of Elizabeth

By WINIFRED BOGGS

SYNOPSIS.

The young Elizabeth is the adored daughter of Tim and Elizabeth Darcy. When she is four years old she runs away from home to avoid punishment for getting into mischief. She is brought home promptly by a neighbor, Miss Smiley.

At 12 Elizabeth runs away again, this time from school, and to the home of her Aunt Dolly in London. Dolly, who is almost as flighty as the young Elizabeth, sympathizes with her niece, much to the irritation of her stepson, Stephen Whitby.

After the death of her parents Elizabeth goes to live with her aunt. During the war they keep themselves busy and also amused by performing in amateur theatricals for the benefit of wounded soldiers. Stephen, home on leave, is asked by his stepmother to bring Mark Lennox, a young playwright, to one of their performances.

Shortly after the end of the war Mrs. Whitby dies suddenly in Brighton, and Elizabeth learns to her consternation that her aunt had frittered away the money left her by her husband, and had also disposed of some of Stephen's inheritance as well. Afraid to face Stephen after this revelation Elizabeth decides to go to Mark Lennox in London and ask him to get her a job on the stage. Stephen finds her at Mark and, although his business has failed, he offers to help her. Elizabeth takes a part in Mark's new play, and on the opening night she gets stage fright and runs off, leaving an understudy to take over the part.

INSTALLMENT XVII. ELIZABETH GETS ANOTHER JOB.

Miss Smiley, staying in Peckham with a cousin, an enthusiastic first nighter, in her own words, "dragged" to the first night of "The Broken Butterfly." When Elizabeth came on the stage she recognized her instantly and became rather excited. Mrs. White was even more so, that Clara of all people should know a real live actress! She at once begged her to let her meet Elizabeth. And then came the debacle, the flight of Elizabeth, the rung down curtain. "I shall go home," said Miss Smiley, jumping up and grabbing her belongings.

Mrs. White refused to accompany her. "You never know," she said mysteriously, "something may happen even yet. Suppose it did and I missed it." Later she was full of triumph; had she not witnessed a sensational success and the birth of a new star?

Miss Smiley, making for her tube, was astonished to see no less a person than Elizabeth rushing wildly along the street, and, grabbing her by the cloak, exclaimed:

"Good gracious, Elizabeth Darcy, whatever are you tearing about like that for?" To herself she added, "I do believe the silly creature is running away again."

"I'm going to drown myself," announced Elizabeth dramatically, adding in the same breath, "but not tonight!"

"Don't talk such wicked nonsense," Miss Smiley commanded.

"Were you there? Didn't you see what happened? I have spoiled the play, ruined Mr. Lennox. I would rather die than face him again!"

"You're not going to Waterloo bridge tonight," Miss Smiley said firmly.

"Waterloo bridge!" echoed Elizabeth astonished.

"You needn't pretend. It's where they all do it."

"Do what? And who do it?"

"There you go, Elizabeth, pretending again! It's quite useless. I know all about such things! As for who do it you know perfectly well—girls who have got themselves in trouble."

"Like me? I'm in terrible trouble," said Elizabeth. "That's why I've almost decided to drown myself, sooner or later."

"I knew it!" said Miss Smiley. "Some day you will thank heaven I came upon you at such a moment!"

Elizabeth was silent. She had an idea that under no circumstances would she ever thank heaven for Miss Smiley.

"Now tell me exactly how far things have gone between you and Mr. Lennox."

"What things? . . . O, you mean our arrangement? Of course it will be off now. He'll never speak to me again."

"O, you mean the play?" Miss

Smiley was a little disappointed; she had expected a more dramatic confession.

"I've not only ruined myself—I've ruined him!"

"Miss Smiley found her voice at last. 'You must come home with me, Elizabeth. We will talk matters over together. I cannot leave you alone in such a mood—it is not safe. My cousin will accept any introduction by me. She is a perfect fool. We will go and talk it over in Peckham.'"

"Where is Peckham?" asked Elizabeth in all innocence.

"Miss Smiley was annoyed. Was this ignorance or pretended ignorance? 'Don't be absurd!' she said angrily. 'I'm awfully sorry,' apologized Elizabeth. 'I never could learn geography, but I have heard of it.' She thought hard for a moment and did her best. 'It's in Somerset,' she added triumphantly.

"You know perfectly well it's one of the most important centers of London!" exploded Miss Smiley. "Where have you been living yourself? In Park Lane, 'Chelsea'."

"O, among people of that sort! No wonder you are ruined!" She had just been reading a novel full of the most lurid orgies, all staged in Chelsea.

"They all come from there," said Elizabeth. "I mean that's where we start, you know."

"You've certainly started," said the elder lady grimly. "May I ask where you lived? In a flat of your own?"

"O, no, though I should have had the flat later, of course."

"Of course! And in the meanwhile?"

"I lived with Mr. Lennox . . . in his rooms, I mean!"

"I see," said Miss Smiley, seeing a great number of things that had no existence; "he had that sort of land-lady, I suppose! And you were actually going back there?"

"O, no, never! I told you I'd drown myself rather—because I am ruined. And I sort of shared with Miss Colet. You know, Mr. Lennox arranged it."

Miss Smiley gasped. "And she did not mind?" She was another of them, I suppose?"

"You mean literary? Yes, a journalist."

"Ah!" said the elder woman darkly. "I see!" There had been journalists in the book of orgies. "Now, Elizabeth, listen to me? Will there be any one in that . . . house?"

"It would be, of course. Now we will go straight there and pack your bag and you shall come straight home with me."

For Elizabeth's sake she would herself risk entering this place of sin. Poor, foolish, wanton creature, hadn't she prophesied it all long ago?

Mrs. White, sloppy, sentimental, easy going, almost cried with joy and pride at the least entertaining act of the actress, and a "ruined" actress at that.

When she was introduced to Elizabeth she refused to believe anything against her. "Ruined! Nonsense," she said, "the girl is young and ignorant and as innocent as you make 'em. Don't talk to me. I've been married and I know."

"What nonsense!" exclaimed Miss Smiley impatiently. Anyway, I've thought of things. Ann has left and you can't get any one else, why not make use of Elizabeth? Offer to give her a home in return for cooking."

"Can she cook?" asked Mrs. White. "Any fool can learn a thing like that. What is it? Putting things in the oven and taking them out when they are done?" Miss Smiley regarded food merely as fuel, and hardly knew what she ate, and cared less.

"I don't know," objected Mrs. White, making a stand. "There are fools and fools, and she may be one; I won't have good food ruined."

"Then buy her a cookery book," said Miss Smiley as one who had disposed of an absurd objection. "I always buy my raw country girls cookery books and there's always things to eat."

Mrs. White shuddered. She had once stayed with Miss Smiley in her country cottage and lost not only weight but appetite. "I shall ask her myself," she said firmly. "She will know best whether she can cook or not."

"Cook!" repeated Elizabeth. "O, I say what fun! Rather!" Had not dad and she once made a cake to surprise mum, and had it not turned out almost edible and been a great joke. She told Mrs. White there was nothing she liked better than cooking, and that she would simply love to stay for a bit and try her hand at it. After all, one could look it up in the books. Any one could cook.

Mrs. White went to bed feeling that real life was rather like the Sunday school books after all. One did a good action and was repaid a thousandfold. That such morals are entirely pernicious being self and self-seeking she did not, of course, realize. She was far too pleased with her good action for the moment.

The BITE THAT JOHNNIE GOT

MOSQUITOES are the stealthy marauders of the night. They carry disease wherever they go. Where Johnnie got malaria was a mystery to everybody except to that boring buzzing disease bearing mosquito which made a nonstop flight from the filthy swamp to Johnnie's bedside.

Kill-Ko, the famous liquid insecticide, sprayed into the room would have formed a vapor gas which would have sent the aviator mosquito crashing to his doom.

BURGESS CHILDREN'S STORIES

WHITEY IS KNOCKED OVER.
BY THORNTON W. BURGESS.

The tempter at your elbow stands;
Pray close your ears to his demands.
—Old Mother Nature.

Whitey, the white-coated young son of Peter Rabbit, and the only one of Peter's children now living in the dear old briar-patch, had found, right on the edge of the dear old briar-patch, what seemed to him like a queer little house. It was a perfectly harmless house so far as he could see. It was open at one end and inside were some pieces of carpet. One little piece had been outside. It hadn't taken Whitey long to discover that this was good to eat. It seemed to him that never had he tasted anything so delicious. Now he was trying to make up his mind to enter that little house for some more.

First he would look that queer little house all over. So he cut a way out from the dear old briar-patch, for the little house was right at the very entrance of one of the paths into the dear old briar-patch. Once outside, he hopped all around that queer little house. He could find no other way into it. In fact, he could not see into it. "It's a queer house, I wonder whose it is," said Whitey to himself. "There seems to be nobody about. I don't see why I shouldn't go right in and help myself. No one will be the wiser." So presently Whitey hopped around in front of the queer little house. For a long time he sat there, not daring to go inside, yet unable to leave. The longer he sat there the more those pieces of carpet tempted him. His mouth watered. It watered more and more. Finally, he ventured to poke his head in. Then he withdrew it quickly. He felt that he had been very daring.

"It's all right," said a small voice inside of him. "It's perfectly all right. There isn't a thing to be afraid of." Whitey took a step forward. Just as he did so, something hit him from the side and knocked him sprawling. In fact, it made him squeal right out. It quite knocked the wind out of him. In an instant he was on his feet, however, and was just about to run when he discovered his mother. Yes, sir, he discovered his mother.

"D-did you do that?" he stuttered. Little Mrs. Peter nodded.

"W-w-what for?" cried Whitey, looking very much injured and very much puzzled.

"To save you from being made a prisoner," replied Mrs. Peter shortly. "Do you know what that thing is?"

"It's a little house," said Whitey. "It's somebody's little house; I don't know whose."

"It's a trap," said Mrs. Peter. "If you had gone in there, you wouldn't have been able to get out."

"Why couldn't I get out the same way I went in?" demanded Whitey.

"Because," replied Mrs. Peter, "the door would have closed and shut you in. Now you get away from here. You stay away from here. Whenever you see one of these little wooden houses, keep away from it. Don't forget, keep away from it. Now go!"

Whitey knew better than to disobey when his mother spoke that way, and he went. But inside he was saying to himself, "I don't believe Mother knows what she's talking about. I don't believe there is any harm in it. No, sir, I don't believe there is any harm in it. Mother is just silly. That's it. Mother is just silly. I guess I'm big enough to take care of myself now. My, what ever that I had to do, it was good. I wish I had some more right now." He licked his lips.

"It's a trap," said Mrs. Peter.

The next story: "Foolish Young Whitey."

$4,000 IS SOUGHT FOR GOLF COURSE

On the heels of a protest by citizens of West End to the petition adopted Wednesday night by the newly-formed municipal golfers league, in which Mayor Haggdale is asked to have the proposed nine-hole course in John A. White park changed back to an 18-hole course, Councilman John A. White announced a meeting of the park committee at 8 o'clock this morning to consider a resolution asking for $4,000 to build the nine-hole course immediately.

Acting as spokesmen for the women of West End, Mrs. Chester Johnson, president of the West End Women's club, said Thursday that the change in plans from an 18-hole to a nine-hole course in White park was made on the petition of the Women's club and 75 citizens of West End.

"We want the new park to serve the masses of the people as well as the golfers, and as there are hundreds of people in West End who do not play golf, they need some other form of recreation to improve their health," Mrs. Johnson said.

"We want the entire city to play golf. We have no parks in West End nearer than Grant park, and, if necessary, we will petition the entire city of West End to support our contentions in the matter. It seems selfish to take up the entire park for a golf course alone."

The resolution to be presented to the park committee this morning requests the chairman of the finance committee to call a special meeting of the committee before council meets at 3 o'clock Monday afternoon and to set aside the $4,000 for the park.

Atlanta is confronted with a serious situation regarding the municipal golf courses in view of the fact that the park department has not been furnished with any funds to construct any of the golf courses as laid out on the lands purchased for such purposes this year, Councilman White said.

The two present nine-hole courses cannot maintain the 18-hole status of the municipal golfers in this city today, as it would take five nine-hole, two 18-hole and one 36-hole course to relieve the present condition.

Summer greens at James L. Key and Piedmont park golf courses will be opened next week, having been resodded following the severe cold of last winter which killed the grass.

L. L. Wais, superintendent of parks, announced Thursday in discussing the resolutions adopted by the newly formed golfers league. The summer greens have just been sodded sufficiently for play on them, he pointed out.

Students entering Oglethorpe University should matriculate at once. The winter term begins September 24. Catalogue and information on application. Address Oglethorpe University, Ga.—(adv.)

DRYS OPEN ACTIVE BATTLE ON SMITH

Asheville, N. C., July 19.—(AP)—An active campaign to win the south for Herbert Hoover, republican nominee for the presidency, will be carried on by the dry-anti-South democrats, an organization of prohibitionists formed here today at the concluding session of a two-day conference.

Election of dry democratic congressmen, state officials and county officials also will be sought.

Cite Aims, Principles. The campaign will be carried on by an executive committee to be composed of a man and a woman from each of the states of Alabama, Florida, Georgia, Mississippi, Louisiana, Arkansas, Missouri, Oklahoma, Kentucky, West Virginia, Virginia, South Carolina and North Carolina. Headquarters probably will be established at Richmond, Va., the home of Bishop James C. Cannon, Jr., of the Methodist Episcopal church, south, who with Dr. J. A. Barton, of Atlanta, a Baptist leader, called the meeting here.

The organization at an executive session this morning adopted a lengthy statement of aims and principles. The statement attacked Governor Alfred E. Smith, democratic nominee, and National Democratic Chairman John J. Raskob on four points after explaining that every member of the conference was a democrat, and adding:

Democracy Praised. "While declaring our unwavering allegiance to the principles of true democracy and our determination to labor to preserve the spirit, ideals and unity of our southern democracy, we have deliberately and finally decided that we cannot support Governor Alfred E. Smith, the nominee at the Houston convention, for the presidency of the United States and we hereby pledge ourselves as anti-Smith democrats, to use all proper and honorable means to secure his defeat. This decision is based on the following reasons:

"First, Governor Smith's repudiation of the Houston platform on prohibition.

"Second, Governor Smith's wet record.

"Third, Governor Smith's selection of a wet republican as chairman of the democratic national committee.

"Fourth, Governor Smith's relation to Tammany hall."

Students entering Oglethorpe University should matriculate at once. The winter term begins September 24. Catalogue and information on application. Address Oglethorpe University, Ga.—(adv.)

WILD SHOT LODGES IN WOMAN'S PURSE; TWO ARE ARRESTED

A narrow escape from serious injury or possible death from a stray bullet, said to have been fired by Jim Jackson, of 62 Georgia avenue, was the good fortune of Mrs. Mamie Morrison, of 304 Formwalt street, early Thursday night, as she was walking along South Pryor street.

According to police reports, Jackson and Emmett Miles, a negro, of 1 Wells street, were engaged in an argument in the plant of the United Electrical company, on South Pryor, when the negro advanced on Jackson, holding a bottle in one hand and a knife in the other. Jackson stated that he drew his own pistol and fired two bullets in an effort to shoot the knife from Miles' hand. One of the bullets took effect in the negro's right arm and the other went wild, passing through the open door of the plant and lodging in the handbag of Mrs. Morrison, who was on the opposite side of the street.

Miles was treated for his wound at Grady hospital and then taken to police headquarters, where he was jailed on a charge of disorderly conduct. Jackson was released under $500 bond, charged with shooting at another. Call Officers McGarrity and Scott investigated.

GREAT BRITAIN ACCEPTS TREATY

Washington, July 19.—(AP)—Replies of the London government and of five other members of the British commonwealth, Canada, Australia, South Africa, New Zealand and India, accepting the revised American draft of the war renunciation treaty, were made public tonight by the state department simultaneously with their publication in London and Ottawa.

The Canadian answer is the most striking of the group. It was transmitted direct from Ottawa bearing the signature of W. L. Mackenzie King, as secretary of state for external affairs, and states in 50 words that Canada "cordially accepts the treaty as revised and is prepared to participate in its signature."

British Bar Prejudice.
The British government's answer equally accepts the revised treaty, but reiterates the British understanding of the terms of the pact insofar as they might affect obligations to the League of Nations or under the treaty of Locarno and also with respect to the right of self-defense and automatic release from future wars. The British note states that the treaty is not intended to break the pact. In addition, Sir Austen Chamberlain, British foreign secretary, reiterates his previous statement that Great Britain's acceptance of the new treaty rests "upon the understanding that it does not prejudice her freedom of action in unspecified regions, of which the welfare and integrity constitute a special and vital interest for our peace and safety."

The Australian reply was transmitted through Chamberlain as were those of the Union of South Africa, New Zealand and India. In the case of South Africa, however, the British foreign secretary's communication states that the reply is forwarded him from General Hertzog, South African minister for external affairs.

Recalls Earlier Note.
None of the replies from members of the British commonwealth, other than the London government itself, touches upon the point made by the foreign secretary in relation to what has come to be known as the British Monroe doctrine stipulation. The replies of New Zealand and India briefly take cognizance, however, of the other stipulations reiterated in the London note, while those for Australia and South Africa outline for themselves the same understanding.

In the British foreign secretary's note it was recalled that in a previous communication he had pointed out that respect for league and Locarno obligations "was the foundation of the policy of the government of this country and that they could not agree to any new treaty which would weaken or undermine these engagements."

After mature consideration, the note added, the London government was satisfied that fulfillment of its obligations under the league covenant and the treaty of Locarno was not precluded by acceptance of the treaty proposed by the United States government.

"They (the British government) concur in the view enunciated by the German government in their note of the 27th of April, that those obligations do not contain anything which could conflict with the treaty proposed by the United States government," the Chamberlain note continued.

The previously stated British position, that if one party to the proposed treaty renounced to war in violation of its terms, other parties should be released automatically from obligations under the treaty towards the violating nation, had been met satisfactorily, the note went on, in the stipulation on this point inserted in the preamble of the revised draft. That stipulation denies to any treaty power resorting to war against another signatory "to promote its national interests" all benefits of the treaty.

The British note asserted "peculiar satisfaction" that all parties to the Locarno treaty were now invited to

Wedding Off, Beck, Fiancee Shun Inquiry

Lauds Kellogg Views.

Coming down to the question of special regional interests the Chamberlain note said:
"As regards the passage in my note of the 19th of May relating to certain regions of which the welfare and integrity constitute a special and vital interest for our peace and safety, I need only repeat that my majesty's government in Great Britain accept the new treaty upon the understanding that it does not prejudice their freedom of action in this respect."

The British foreign secretary said he was in accord with the views expressed by Secretary Kellogg in a speech on April 28 as to the unimpaired rights of self-defense under the treaty. He also said his opinion that the treaty alone is competent to decide when circumstances necessitate recourse to war for that purpose.

Smith Headquarters Opened in New York

New York, July 19.—(AP)—Headquarters for the presidential campaign of Governor Alfred E. Smith are to be established in the General Motors building at Broadway and 58th street.

The move from the Hotel Biltmore, where the governor's campaigns in recent years were centered, was ordered by John J. Raskob, democratic chairman, who is finance chairman of the General Motors corporation.

The entire eighth floor is being remodeled for the general headquarters and on other floors will be quarters for the democratic senatorial and congressional committees.

Temporary offices have already been established and the first meeting of the unofficial cabinet, the members of which probably will form the executive committee of the campaign, was held there yesterday.

Attending the meeting were Mr. Raskob, Senator Peter Goelet Gerry, of Rhode Island, chairman of the advisory committee; Senator Key Pittman, of Nevada; James J. Hoey, John F. Gilchrist, George R. Van Namee, manager of Governor Smith's pre-convention campaign; Colonel Herbert H. Lehman, chairman of the finance committee, and Mrs. Henry Moskowitz.

With the exception of the two senators those in the group have all been advisers of Governor Smith in past years.

It was decided to form a women's advisory committee to be headed by Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt, wife of the man who at three democratic conventions nominated Governor Smith for the presidency.

Mr. Raskob said that the question of establishing regional headquarters would depend upon "developing conditions."

In his first press conference, which followed the meeting, Mr. Raskob said that "any number" of his republican friends had assured him they were going to support Governor Smith.

He said he did not feel at liberty to make public their names but that he believed "many of them will come out openly in the course of the campaign and make the announcements themselves."

Wedding Off, Beck, Fiancee Shun Inquiry

Lauds Kellogg Views.

London, July 19.—(AP)—Maid and footmen today guarded from inquirers Mrs. Lionel Tennyson and James Montgomery Beck, Jr., whose notice of marriage was withdrawn suddenly from the registry office in Paddington, West London. The wedding had been set for today.

Mr. Beck is a son of the former solicitor general of the United States. He was named as co-respondent when Major Lionel Tennyson sued for divorce in July 1927. The major was Mrs. Tennyson's second husband, her marriage to Capt. William Bethel having been dissolved in 1918. She is a sister of Lord Glenconner.

Mayfair society discussed the wedding postponement avidly but was unable to account for the delay in the plans.

Mr. Beck took refuge in St. James club, an exclusive west end organization.

WESTERN PACIFIC TO BUILD OWN LINE TO SAN FRANCISCO

Washington, July 19.—(AP)—A proposal to build 163 miles of new railroad in northern California was filed with the interstate commerce commission today by the Western Pacific system and application was made for authority to undertake the enterprise.

Through the Western Pacific California Railroad company, a new corporation, the Western Pacific intends to establish its own direct rail connection into San Francisco.

The maps and application presented call for the completion of a through line 138 miles long from Niles, a point near Stockton, through Fresno to Kings river in Tulare county. Approximately 12 miles of this line already has been built, from Hilmar into Fresno, by the Tidewater Southern railway and the Western Pacific proposes to obtain track rights over this stretch, building the balance.

The Western Pacific proposes to finance the construction program partly by subscribing to capital stock of the California corporation and partly by direct advances of money and borrowing. No estimates of the total cost were presented but the commission was asked to allow fuller explanation of the expansion at hearings.

YOUTH'S SLAYER GOES TO CHAIR IN GOTHAM PRISON

Ossining, N. Y., July 19.—(AP)—Joseph Lefkowitz, of New York city, was electrocuted at Sing Sing prison tonight for the murder last January of Benjamin Goldstein, whose life he had insured for $80,000.

Lefkowitz protested his innocence to the last, declaring that though he had conspired to collect Goldstein's insurance by fraud, he had not plotted the youth's death.

Goldstein, who was 22 years old, was drowned in a swimming pool last January, after it was charged, he had been pushed from a rowboat by Irving Rubinsahl, at the direction of Lefkowitz. Rubinsahl is serving a sentence of 20 years to life in Sing Sing.

Testifying at the trial, Lefkowitz said he had arranged for Rubinsahl and Goldstein that the latter should feign drowning from the rowboat and disappear until the insurance was collected.

HOOPER TO FAVOR FARM AD SURVEY

Abroad Hoover Train, Cheyenne, Wyo.

July 19.—(AP)—Friends who have conferred with Herbert Hoover during his westward journey to California have gained the impression that the republican presidential nominee does not intend to advance any specific plan of farm relief in his acceptance speech at Palo Alto next month.

These same friends declare, however, that Mr. Hoover is thoroughly alive to the fact that the condition of agriculture presents a problem which calls for solution, and that he will pledge himself to make a thorough-going survey of the whole situation, and to dedicate his best efforts to the formulation of a practical plan of aid.

Gets Conflicting Views.

Details of a specific plan very likely will be left for further study with the possibility that as the campaign progresses proposals will be outlined, with the first of these probably touched upon when the nominee speaks at his old home at West Branch, Iowa, late next month.

As he has traveled across the continent during the last five days, Mr. Hoover has received somewhat conflicting views from leaders in the farm movement as to just what the situation in the corn belt really is as it bears upon his own political fortunes and those of his party.

Nowhere was this more pronounced than in Nebraska, where Governor Adam McMullen insisted that only the equalization fee, or its equivalent would satisfy the farmers and keep them from the nomination of a republican. Charles A. McClellan, republican national committeeman for that state, and other political leaders declared that the equalization fee principal was out and that there was no doubt about Nebraska giving a substantial majority for the Hoover-Curtis ticket.

No Work on Speech.

As his train sped through the foothills of the Rockies today, Mr. Hoover continued his conferences with political leaders, meeting a delegation from Utah and having as his guest on his private car Governor Fred B. Balzar, of Nevada, who rode across the state with him.

These conferences and near platform appearances at a large number of cities have prevented Mr. Hoover from continuing his work on his acceptance speech, but he is expected to devote much of his time next week to this task, although he will hold conferences with party leaders from the Pacific coast and Rocky Mountain states and also give some time to clearing up certain matters on the Pacific coast which he desires to personally attend to before the president relieves him of his duties as commerce secretary.

Because of the death of Mrs. Hoover's father, C. D. Henry, all plans for home-coming celebrations at San Francisco and Palo Alto Friday have been abandoned. The special train will go from Oakland across the Dumbarton bridge to San Francisco and will arrive there at 10:30 p.m. to Leland Stanford university, where Mr. and Mrs. Hoover will attend the funeral of Mr. Henry during the afternoon at the university chapel.

Quiet Week-End Planned.

At every stop the special train makes Mrs. Hoover receives messages of condolence from friends and those in official life. Mrs. Hoover was a message from the President and Mrs. Coolidge. Mrs. Hoover has been greatly shocked by the death of her father and she will remain in seclusion in her compartment until she reaches home.

After the funeral services and interment at Palo Alto, Mr. and Mrs. Hoover will spend the week-end quietly at home, probably devoting themselves to callers, except most intimate friends, until early next week.

While the date for the home-coming celebration at San Francisco is yet to be fixed, it probably will be held after the notification ceremonies on August 11, perhaps just before Mr. Hoover starts eastward for his old Iowa home via Los Angeles and Albuquerque, N. M. He will be given a reception at Los Angeles and also at Cedar Rapids, Iowa. He plans now to spend three days in Iowa, two at Cedar Rapids and one at West Branch, but the time has not yet been fixed.

LAST RITES FOR FATHER OF MRS. HOOPER TODAY.

Palo Alto, Calif., July 19.—(AP)—Private funeral services will be held at the Stanford Memorial chapel here tomorrow afternoon for C. D. Henry, father-in-law of Herbert Hoover, who died early yesterday in Placerville, Calif.

Professor A. T. Murray, a member of the Stanford university faculty since 1892, will conduct the services. The only music will be supplied by Warren Allen, Stanford organist.

After the services the body will be cremated at Cypress Lawn cemetery at Colma and the ashes taken to Alta Mesa cemetery, three miles south of Palo Alto, for burial beside those of Mrs. Henry.

The body, accompanied by Mrs. Jean H. Large, a daughter, will arrive in Palo Alto tonight. Alan Hoover, a son of Herbert Hoover, reached here today.

"JIMMY'S" VACATION NEARING ITS CLOSE, LEAVES FOR FRISCO

Los Angeles, July 19.—(AP)—Mayor James Walker, of New York, having concluded a two weeks' vacation in southern California, was en route to San Francisco today for an additional week's stay on the Pacific coast.

The mayor came here after the democratic national convention at Houston.

Charles Kerrigan, assistant to the mayor, who was operated on for appendicitis at the Hollywood hospital a few days ago, remained here to recuperate.

LADY ASTOR SAYS BIRTH CONTROL IS STATE MATTER

Plymouth, Eng., July 19.—(AP)—Lady Astor, speaking on the question of maternal mortality, at the royal society conference, said that when she thought of what the women of the past had to endure she rejoiced that men have begun to see reason and that they will now have to reckon with us." Lady Astor expressed the hope that the government committee on maternal mortality would deal fearlessly with the question of birth control and would give a considered judgment regarding how far ignorance and quick remedies were responsible for an unnecessarily high death rate. She said that she did not believe that the matter could be put aside by making it a religious one and felt that the state must legislate impartially.

TIFTON GIRL BRIDE BIGAMIST VICTIM

Syracuse, N. Y., July 19.—Traced to Syracuse from Georgia by government agents, Joseph Hoffman, 31, who gave his address as 715 West Brighton avenue, was held today at police headquarters on a bigamy charge after the warrant for his arrest had been signed by United States Commissioner Rasey.

Hoffman was taken to headquarters by Detective Lynch and Acting Detective Weber. He is alleged to have abandoned his wife in the south after meeting Miss Jewel Conger, of Tifton, Ga., whom he later married at Greenville, S. C., according to information given police.

The second Mrs. Hoffman, who was with her husband when he was taken in custody, made a statement to James Dwyer, clerk at headquarters, in which she admitted her marriage to Hoffman, stating she had no idea he already was married. She sobbed continually while making the statement.

A member of a prominent southern family, the young woman said she met Hoffman while he was engaged in the real estate business in the south. She intended to marry him after a short courtship.

Hoffman decided to return to Syracuse, his native city, authorities charge, and here he and the second Mrs. Hoffman came. The first Mrs. Hoffman learned of the marriage and government agents started a search for Hoffman.

Newsmen Invited To Hear Stephenson Make His Statement

La Porte, Ind., July 19.—(AP)—David C. Stephenson, former grand dragon of the Indiana Ku Klux Klan, intends to tell the world his story at 9 o'clock next Tuesday morning. He is serving a life term in the state penitentiary for the death in 1925 of an Indianapolis girl.

He was granted permission to make a deposition by Arthur L. Gilliom, attorney general of Indiana, following a hearing yesterday in circuit court. Gilliom invited newsmen to hear Stephenson's statement.

The former political leader's hearing was in answer to his plea for permission to confer privately with his attorneys regarding personal business matters. He contends his incarceration is costing him thousands of dollars in business deals. The hearing was delayed until Monday.

RAILROAD BRIDGE OVER KENTUCKY RIVER APPROVED

Washington, July 19.—(AP)—An application by the Louisville & Nashville Railroad company for approval of plans of a bridge to be constructed across the Kentucky river at Frankfort, Ky., under authority of state law, has been granted by Assistant Secretary of War Robbins.

The bridge is to be a cantilever type, 1,000 feet long, with a main span of 400 feet. It will be built on a 100-foot wide right-of-way. The estimated cost is $1,000,000. The bridge will be owned by the Louisville & Nashville Railroad company and operated by the Kentucky River Bridge Commission.

DOCTORS Say Give Your Child This Candy

Food for children must take the purest and most easily digestible form. There must be no question about any ingredient. Hence, doctors everywhere advise you to use Dextrose in your child's diet.

Dextrose is a virtually predigested sweet. It is quickly assimilated, contributing valuable elements to the system. It is more readily digested even than Lactose which is the natural sugar of milk, for Lactose must first be converted into Dextrose before the system is ready to digest it.

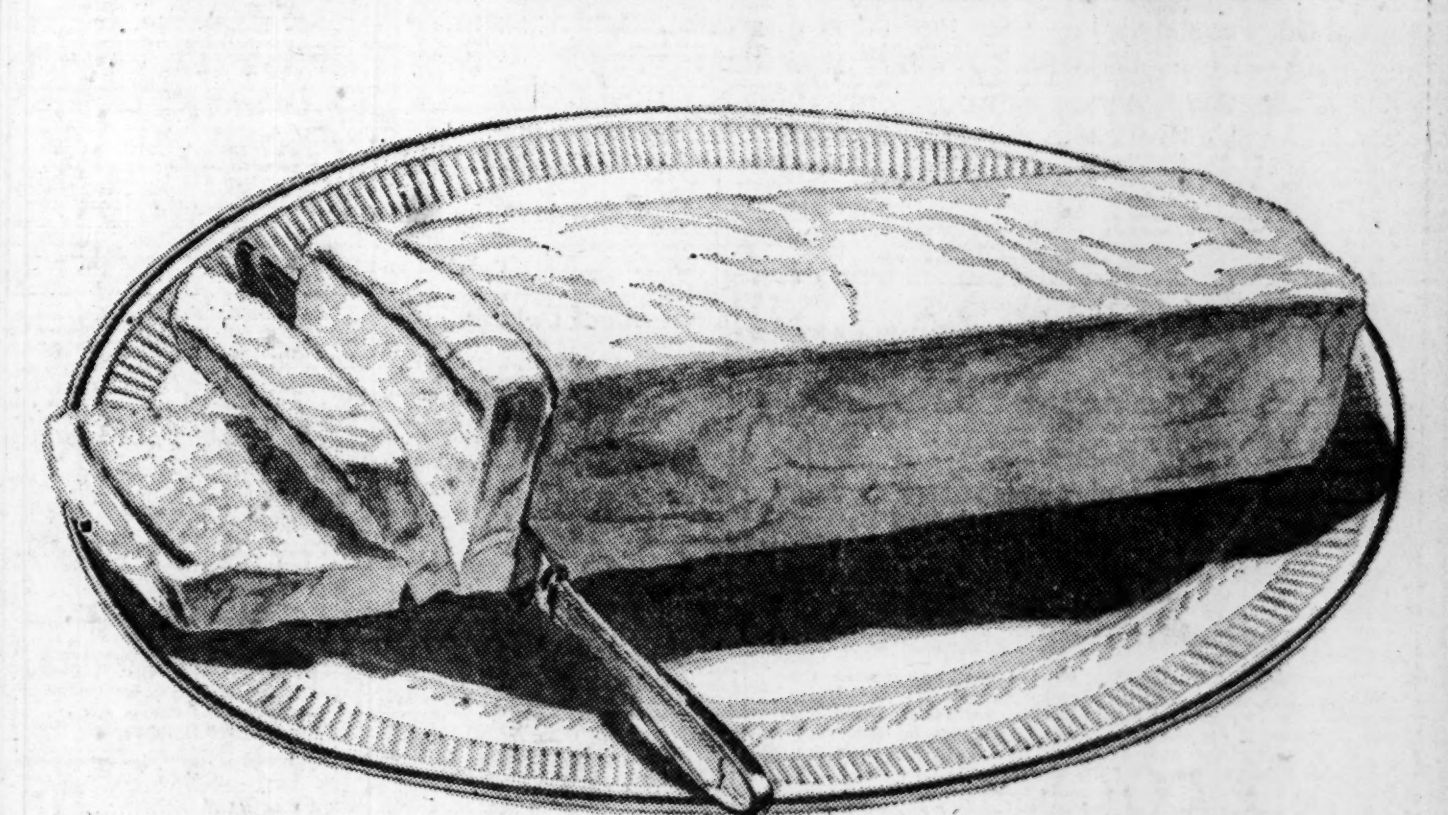

And now Dextrose is made into real candy lollipops, called Dextro-Lollipops. Delightfully flavored, each Dextro-Lollipop contains 4.75 grams of Dextrose, the sweet your physicians approve and recommend. Children love Dextro-Lollipops for their flavor. You can give them all they want. DEXTRO COMPANY, AT-LANTA.

DR. I. E. AARON PASSES AT LYONS

Lyons, Ga., July 19.—(Special.)—Dr. I. E. Aaron, one of the leading physicians of this section, died here in his office, where he had been confined since 3 o'clock Tuesday afternoon, when he became violently ill with pneumonia poisoning. Every assistance possible was given him by local physicians but he succumbed at 6:30 Thursday afternoon.

He moved to this county from near Millen after graduating from the medical college and opened a drug store in a frame building where the First National bank now stands. Later he married Miss Ophelia Partin, of this town, and they were blessed with five children. He operated a drug store here in 1896 and since then gradually acquired more property and business as well as a wide practice.

Besides his children Dr. Aaron is survived by his widow and four brothers, T. W. J. L. and W. H. of Millen, and J. L. of Lyons, and two sisters, Mrs. John Gay, of Millen; Mrs. A. B. Hursey, of Hazlehurst, and Mrs. B. B. Newton, of Lyons.

He was local physician for the Seaboard railroad for many years and always took an active part in all meetings of this and the local and district medical profession. Funeral services have not yet been arranged.
